Mideast boundary debate continues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli and Egyptian envoys met for two hours today at a desert highway checkpoint to discuss troop withdrawals from the Suez war front. They agreed to meet again Saturday.

U.N. sources in Cairo said the Saturday meeting would deal once again with the crucial issue of a cease-fire boundary acceptable to both sides. Negotiators had dealt with the same problem at a session Thanksgiving Day.

Radio Israel said Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv and Egypt's Lt. Gen. Mohamed Gamasy resumed talks for the sixth time in a U.N. conference tent on the Cairo-Suez road, the tip of the Israeli front 60 miles from the Egyptian capital.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan warned that the Middle East war had not ended but was just beginning. In a speech before the Israeli Bar Association he urged fellow Israelis to have steady nerves in the event of new hostilities.

He said the Soviet Union had resupplied Syria and Egypt with weapons since the October fighting. "We are facing not the end of the war, but the beginning with the Syrians and the Egyptians, and I don't know about the other fronts," he declared.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban returned from a visit to the United States and told newsmen the Israeli government had not yet decided whether it could attend a Mideast peace conference in December.

Eban said he had pointed out to U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and other officials that the government could not make significant commitments for the future until after the Israeli elections set for Dec.31.

Israeli newspapers, summing up Thursday's meeting on the Cairo road, said the decision to continue daily talks signaled progress in the discussion of a principal issue: how to separate the opposing forces.

The key stumbling block in the talks continued to be disagreement over the drawing of a new cease-fire line as stipulated in the six-point accord worked out earlier this month during a visit to the Middle East by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Egypt claimed the Israelis made significant advancements after the first U.N. imposed cease-fire on Oct. 22 and has demanded that the Israeli forces return to where they were on that date.

But Israel said the positioning of the two armies on Oct. 22 cannot now be determined and has suggested the opposing forces return to their respective sides of the Suez Canal with a six-mile demilitarized zone on both banks.

Pecans by the sack

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Shy sell many of their pecans from a stand beside their home in New Madrid. The Shys (top photo) purchased the property in 1937. Shy sells cracked pecans (left photo), which are cracked when run through a machine. The Shys have five acres of pecans in town (bottom photo). The pecans were planted by Mrs. Shy's father, Judge Lee Phillips, 45 years ago. They have another 153 acres of pecan trees just outside New Madrid.

Rain storm causes power failure here

A heavy rain storm throughout the Bootheel last night and early today was also the cause of a power failure in a large area of Sikeston this morning.

Lightning struck a power transformer east of Missouri Delta Community Hospital about 6 a.m. today, knocking out power to a large area of Sikeston, according to Dick Inman, director of municipal utilities. Inman said the power was restored by 7 a.m.

The power plant in Sikeston recorded 2.53 inches of rain from 7 p.m. Thursday night until about 11 a.m. today. By 7 a.m. today, 1.77 inches of that total had fallen, causing flooded streets thoughout much of Sikeston.

Flooded streets were also reported in East Prairie and New Madrid.

The heaviest rainfall in the area seems to have occurred at East Prairie where KYMO reported 2.72 inches of rain since its beginning Thursday night until 9 a.m. today. The station reported that the rain guage overflowed before it was checked at 6:50 a.m. at which point it held approximately 2.22 inches.

From 6 p.m. Thursday night until 10:30 a.m. today, 2.1 inches of rain were reported at Malden.

One and one half inches of rain were recorded by KMIS in Portageville, while the New Madrid power plant recorded 1.94 inches by 6 a.m. today.

The weather service reported heavy rains in these areas, during the night and continuing today.

The forecast calls for several periods of showers and thunderstorms likely through Saturday with an 80 per cent chance of precipitation this afternoon and tonight and a 60 per cent chance for Saturday.

Little, if any, precipitation is expected Sunday through Tuesday.

Fire destroys warehouse

CHARLESTON — Lightning apparently caused the fire which destroyed a cotton warehouse owned by Rolwing and Moxley Gin Co. this morning.

Firemen were called at 6:41 a.m. to the warehouse, located on Mill Street, which contained two full bales, two remnant bales of cotton, a few bags of rye seed and fertilizer.

The fire was brought under control about 10 a.m. However, the building was too heavily damaged to salvage and was allowed to burn to the ground.

No damage estimate was available.

3 hurt in Sikeston accident

Three persons were injured at 11 p.m. Thursday in a two- car accident at the intersection of East Malone Avenue and South Ingram Road.

Treated and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital were Kenneth Wayne Williams, 18, of Pleasant Valley, Iowa, who received cuts and bruises of the face and jaw, and Cathy Marie Williams, 17, of Sikeston and Patricia Ann Johnson, 16, of Canalou, who both received neck injuries.

Police said both cars were headed west on the inside lane, when Miss Johnson stopped to make a left turn onto South Ingram. The car driven by Kenneth Williams failed to stop and struck the rear of the Johnson car, according to police.

Williams was arrested for careless and imprudent driving.

Stolen tools are recovered

Police today said they have recovered $150 worth of hand tools stolen last Saturday from Roy Alberson, 411 Broadway.

The tools were found Wednesday afternoon in a shed behind a vacant house at 721 Allen Boulevard by an employe of the real estate agency handling the sale of the house.

The tools were taken from the cab of Alberson's truck while it was parked at Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian Church, a short distance from where the tools were recovered.

3 sentenced to year in jail

BENTON — Janie Messmer received a one- year jail sentence on each of two charges Wednesday in Circuit Court with the sentences to run concurrently. She was charged with writing a $20 bad check on Aug. 8 to Illmo Variety Store and a $65 bad check Aug. 15 to Shorty's tavern.

After pleading guilty to charges of writing a $58.20 bad check on July 30 to Shy's Supermarket of Chaffee, Gerald Simpson was sentenced to one year in the county jail.

Robert Chance Wallace of Sikeston was sentenced to one year in the county jail on a charge of writing a $97.20 bad check to the Learue and McKinnie store.

Abandoned car burns

Arson is the suspected cause of a fire that destroyed this late model automobile which was abandoned Thursday at the Highway 77 interchange on Interstate 55 near Benton. According to highway patrol Sgt. Alvin E. "Bud" Mills, the car was observed parked on the shoulder of I- 55 about three hours before the fire was discovered. At that time, there was no sign of fire and a license plate was on the back of the car. When the fire was discovered, the plate had been removed and the location and intensity of the blaze indicated that a highly flammable substance had been poured over the front floor board area and set afire. Efforts are under way to determine the identify of the car's owner.

Looks like another bad year for pecan harvest

It looks like this will be another bad year for pecans in New Madrid County.

The largest grower in the Bootheel, Arthur Shy of New Madrid, says he is expecting only about a quarter of his normal crop. In the past eight years, he said only two have been good ones.

Shy has 158 acres of Stuart paper shell and native pecans.

Joe Haubold of Marston who has 43 trees on three acres says he too is expecting only a quarter crop. This is the third straight year of poor crops, he says.

The trees on the J. D. Warner property at Marston are refusing to produce at all.

"If we got every one (of the nuts), we wouldn't have five pounds," says Mrs. Warner.

They have 25-28 trees of the Mayhan and Stuart paper shell varieties.

Last year they had a bumper crop, Mrs. Warner said, but this year most of the trees have no nuts on them at all. Shy blames the poor crops on chemical spraying of nearby cotton and soybean fields. The defoliation chemicals used are blowing into his trees and causing damage in the groves, he said.

Haubold says his grove is surrounded by soybean fields, but there hasn't been

6 injured in 4 SeMo accidents

Six persons were injured in four area traffic accidents Wednesday and Thanksgiving Day, according to the highway patrol.

John Dirickson, 55, of Memphis, Tenn., received six broken ribs in an accident at 6:20 a.m. Wednesday one mile south of the Highway 84 interchange on Interstate 55 near Hayti when his tractor- trailer truck ran off the road and overturned down an embankment.

Dirickson was taken to Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis.

Two Doniphan youths were slightly injured at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday on a gravel road 12 miles north of Doniphan when an eastbound car driven by Charles L. Ezzell, 18, ran off the road and struck a tree.

Ezzell and a passenger, Richard Allen Reynolds, 19, received minor injuries and were taken to Ripley County Memorial Hospital in Doniphan.

An accident at 10:30 a.m. Thursday on Highway 84 three miles east of Kennett resulted in two injuries.

The accident occurred when a car driven by George C. Terrett, 78, of Hayti slammed into the back of a pickup truck parked on the road. James Edward Smallman, 44, of Kennett, who had been driving the pickup, was out of the truck flagging traffic for a combine that was crossing a bridge.

Terrett and a passenger in the Smallman truck, Jimmy Youmans, 7, of Kennett received minor injuries. The patrol did not report where they received treatment.

Rufus A. Parker, 40, of St. Louis was injured at 4:05 p.m. Thursday on Highway 67 at Greenville when he attempted to pass a car driven by Raymond E. Tanner, 27, of Wardell while driving at a high rate of speed. To avoid an oncoming vehicle, Parker swerved his car back to the right and attempted to pass the Tanner car on the right and struck it from behind.

Parker was treated for minor injuries and released from Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

"Well, the house looks a mess — but it was worth it."

"It certainly was. That was the nicest Thanksgiving dinner we ever had."

"You've been saying that for over 20 years now, John."

"Well, it has been true for over 20 years, Elizabeth. Men in my family are known for their ability to pick girls who get prettier and cook better every year."

"How many of us were there, did you say?"

"Eighteen altogether. That sounds like a lot. But in the old days, my grandfather once told me, we used to have 40 to 50 at a family reunion."

"In those days, John, your family didn't just breed like rabbits. They spawned like fish. Do you ever regret that we only had two children?"

"No, indeed. Considering the cost of a college education today, I'm eternally grateful for your forbearance in that respect. Anyway, two is a nice number — better than one and far better than none. You know, I've always thought that married people who don't have any children tend to get a little selfish as they get older."

"Many of them do, John. But, in any case, they all get lonelier."

"You know, Elizabeth, you don't have to go on cooking a big Thanksgiving dinner every year. I'd be glad to take you out and spare you all that work."

"I don't mind the work, John. A mother can fix a thousand meals for her family during the year, and nobody notices them. But if her turkey turns out well on Thanksgiving, everybody praises her as if she had passed a miracle. Besides, I'd rather spend Thanksgiving at home. It's my favorite holiday of all."

"Why is that, Elizabeth?"

"Well, the Fourth of July is too noisy, Easter is for little children and for showing off new clothes, and at Christmas everybody expects to get something for nothing — something they may want but don't really need. But to me Thanksgiving has a warmer and more truly religious feeling. People are simply grateful to God for what they have — and the fact that they can share it together."

SHIFT GEARS ON MOBILE HOMES

The Missouri State Highway Commission will have the opportunity to right its own wrong at its November meeting by rescinding the decision allowing 14- foot- wide mobile homes to be transported on state highways.

It should not hesitate to take this corrective action in the best interests of all users of Missouri highways. It was a disservice to Missourians to grant the road- use privilege to a special interest group in the first place. Monster- sized 14 - foot- wide trailers have no business on 12- foot- wide highways. In some parts of the state, the roadways are only 11 feet wide, creating an even greater highway hazard.

The Highway Commission's handling of the mobile homes matter has been highly questionable. Despite the fact that the General Assembly turned down the request to permit the excessively wide trailers on state roads — a clear indication that the public didn't want the monsters on the highways — the commission gave the mobile home industry the green light.

Now the commission has a chance to erase the question mark about its own conduct as well as act in the public interest. It should be obvious to the commissioners what they should do now: Shift gears and reverse the ill-considered decision.

Most Americans are not confused about what inflation is doing to their savings and salaries, but our attention to this problem is too often diverted by political double-talk, Watergate investigations, and now the Middle East war, along with the energy crisis.

How serious is inflation? Imagine, if you will, receiving a letter from the President of your local bank reading as follows:

"Dear Depositor:

"Due to circumstances beyond our control, we have lost seven- and - one - half per cent of your money this year. We see no hope of recovering this money and, in fact, next year we will be fortunate if we do not lose more. The long-term outlook isn't much better. Your deposit will continue to shrink.

"To help you with your future planning, I would like to point out what will happen to a $100 deposit placed with us. In one year, it will be listed on our books as $92.50; in two years, $85.60; in five years, it will be worth $67.70 and in ten years, $45.90. Sorry."

You would be surprised and shocked to receive such a letter from any bank. Yet the illustration is not far - fetched because the purchasing power of your savings, at the current rate of inflation, would decline at the pace outlined above. Pensions, annuities, long- term bonds and many other fixed investments would suffer the same erosion. Interest paid, of course, reduces the impact of inflation to some degree, but the interest you receive only camouflages the extent of the damage to your nestegg.

Now please don't misunderstand, we believe firmly in all savings plans, but we can no longer allow the spenders in Congress as well as in state and local governments to continue on their road of deficit spending and inflation. These public officials, elected and appointed, deserve to be kicked out of office if they don't stop inflation which is affecting everyone in this nation. Licking inflation comes first, so let's quit kidding ourselves.

MULTINATIONALS CREATE DOMESTIC JOBS

There is considerable public misunderstanding about the impact multinational businesses have on the employment of U. S. workers.

Recent government and university studies show that many American firms with overseas plants increase their domestic employment faster than firms with no foreign operations. This is because companies with overseas plants are able to increase their exports and compete more effectively with foreign companies than strictly domestic firms.

These same studies estimate that close to a million new jobs have been created in the United States directly as a result of American investments outside the U. S. during the past ten years.

Another benefit from foreign investments by U. S. firms is to keep American products competitive in world markets. They also (believe it or not) provide vital funds for investment in the U. S. A recent study of 83 companies with foreign operations found that about half of every after-tax dollar returned to the U. S. is invested in new plants and equipment here at home.

Since it takes an average of more than $25,000 of investment to provide one job in industry, these investment dollars are enough to create more than 200,000 jobs in our country.

Still another benefit of multinational operation is that it promotes continued world peace. War is less likely between nations engaged in mutually beneficial trade.

The Burke- Hartke bill, proposed in Congress, would wipe-out this job- making potential by placing severe restrictions on the operations of American companies seeking to compete on a world- wide basis.

In this column we'll begin to explore the Harrison Narcotic Act of 1914. The foundation for this controversial act was laid in the late 1890's when the United States assumed the duties of governing the Philippine Islands following the Spanish-American war. At that time the U. S. also inherited the system for licensing narcotic addicts and supplying them with opium legally. This system was originally created and maintained under the previous Spanish rule. Some Americans were very distressed by this system which they felt encouraged immoral drug behavior.

President Theodore Roosevelt at the urging of the Episcopal Bishop of the Philippine Islands called for an international opium conference which was held in Shanghai in 1909. Following this meeting a Second Conference took place at The Hague in 1911, from which came the first international opium agreement, The Hague Convention of 1912. This agreement was aimed primarily at solving the opium problems in the Far East, especially China.

These conventions served a dual purpose; dealing with the immediate problem of the opiate maintenance system of the Philippines, and giving the United States a basis for negotiating and having some effect on the historical opium problems of the Far East which primarily involved England and China. We will continue to look at the controversial Harrison Narcotic Act of 1914 in the next History of Drugs column.

SENATE PASSES CURB ON HANDGUNS

The Senate voted 68-25 Aug. 9 to ban the manufacture and sale of low cost handguns.

Under the bill, sponsored by Sen. Birch Bayh (member, Council on Foreign Relations), the manufacture and sale of most short- barreled guns, often referred to as "Saturday Night Specials" would be outlawed.

Bayh's bill would not ban presently- owned short- barrel pistols.

Pro-gun forces succeeded Aug. 8 in writing into the bill an amendment repealing controls over the sale of .22 - caliber rimfirm ammunition which could be used in both sporting rifles and low - cost handguns. The amendment was attached to Bayh's bill by a 71-21 vote.

Earlier the Senate rejected efforts by Sens. Edward M. Kennedy (D, Mass.) and Philip A. Hart (D, Mich.) to ban possession of all handguns, to require registration of all guns and to license all gun owners.

The Kennedy amendment, which would have required registration of all guns and licensing of all gun owners, was defeated by a 78-11 vote Aug. 7.

Hart's measure, which would have outlawed the possession of all privately owned handguns within a year, was rejected 83-7 the same day.

The bill is now being considered in the House of Representatives by Judiciary Subcommittee No. 5.

WHY MAKE IT TOO EASY?

Congress is now in the process of considering ways to make it easier for everyone to cast their ballot at election time. One proposal includes a plan to register by postcard which would eliminate the problem of having to make a special effort to register as an eligible voter. It is fine to encourage people to vote, up to a point. But, considering the complexities of the issues on local, state and national ballots today, it is more important than ever before that whoever votes also be informed.

Dragooning disinterested and uninformed people, whether they be 18 years of age or 98, into the polling places to mark their ballots simply to get the percentages up is a pretty sure way to have a lot of incompetent candidates elected and unworkable legislation passed. We have enough problems with this already. Maybe we should make it tougher to vote, rather than easier. After all, shaping the policies of government is a serious business.

JOHN F. KENNEDY

November 22, 1973, the tenth anniversary of the assassination of our popular and able young President John F. Kennedy, should be a time of national unity. Having known his father, Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, personally and being aware of the constructive and patriotic stature of Ambassador Kennedy and his family, I contributed financially to the John F. Kennedy campaign in 1960 and publically announced my support for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

President Kennedy after the election expressed to me his personal appreciation for my support. It was my expectation that the John F. Kennedy administration would prove to be one of our more constructive Presidencies. The tragic and demoralizing assassination of our popular young President, by a communist, plunged this nation into a period of turmois and disunity from which we have not yet emerged.

The fact that President Kennedy was shot and killed by an avowed communist is a matter which many of the left-leaning commentators and members of the communications media have tried to gloss over for this entire decade and, even now, a highly fictionalized movie is being shown which purports to lay the assassination on right-siders, not on the actual communist conspirators.

This tenth anniversary of the loss of President Kennedy should be a time for all citizens of this Republic USA once again to vow support for our national unity and our determination to overcome in a constructive manner our current problems such as energy, national security and presidential disfavor and once again become determined that communism shall not prevail against us. Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON AND LES WHITTEN SAYS:

Loeb's Star Tells His Tales

WASHINGTON-- Every few months, the nation's most erratic publisher, William Loeb, jolts the country with some fantastic story in his Manchester (N. H.) Union-Leader. As often as not, the revelation is the work of his rambunctious star reporter, Arthur Egan.

Last week, Egan's "Mission: Impossible" Watergate stories put him behind closed doors at the Senate Watergate committee for one of its most colorful sessions.

Dumbfounded committee sleuths are still trying to weed the fancy from the fact in Egan's astonishing secret statement, all of it given under oath and with a straight face.

What brought him to the committee was his claim that Teamster vice presidents and other Teamster bigwigs were ordered to kick in $1,000 each toward a $175,000 war chest for President Nixon's 1972 campaign. Las Vegas casinos with Teamsters' loans came up with another $400,000, he said.

HOFFA STORY

As it turns out, the alleged custodian of the war chest is suing Egan and his paper, and has already caught Egan in a glaring departure from the truth. However, Newsweek, even as we were writing this story, quoted former Teamsters chief James Hoffa telling of a $60,000 to $175,000 war chest collected from the union's leaders at $1,000 a clip.

The committee also heard a sizzling tale of how the then Attorney General John Mitchell, irked at Egan's criticism of the Justice Department, was "going to put some agents on me and wattle me silly." "Wattles" are rods of woven wood.

The "wattling," Egan said under oath, was ordered by Mitchell personally "to shut me up" about stories demanding Hoffa's release from prison. Mitchell, said Egan, used misleading old records to try to get Egan indicted on gun charges. "Geez, right away I am John Dillinger," Egan marveled.

In view of the Nixon Administration's hassling of the press via wiretaps, arrests and tax audits, Egan's charge sounded plausible. Besides, Egan claimed that both the then U. S. attorney for New Hampshire, David Brock, and the state's attorney general, Warren Rudman, would back him up. We contacted both Brock, who said the yarn was "completely erroneous," and Rudman, who snorted it was "horse ----."

HOOVER 'MURDERED'

Egan's credibility dropped even further when he testified that the late J. Edgar Hoover was "murdered." As his questioners gasped, he went on, "Everyone on hearing that says I am nuts, but somebody in the Watergate thing murdered...J Edgar Hoover."

When his interrogators recovered enough to query him, he admitted his statement was "just my own hunch." All available evidence indicates it is a false hunch.

Yet, as credibility of the Union- Leader's star seemed ready to dim, he told how federal pardon and parole officials confided to him that Hoffa's prison commutation papers left their offices with no restrictions on Hoffa's future Teamsters activities.

The final papers banned Hoffa from Teamsters activities until 1980. If Egan is right, the White House quietly skewered Hoffa even as it publicly courted him. Egan's commutation story was backed forcefully by the Union-Leader's lawyer, Ralph Sullivan, who told the committee he heard the pardon and parole official's words. The parole official, however, told us the story was not true.

OTHER 'LEADS'

The committee is still checking these other wild leads from Egan:

-- That a famous singer movie- star coughed up 40 tickets to her performance after a union lawyer threatened "either I get (the tickets) or you don't open." The singer and union lawyer vehemently deny it.

-- That Hoffa's son and Egan were bugged at the Watergate, even as the Democrats were. The accused bugger convincingly denies it.

-- Egan denied that he once suggested a reporter on Loeb's paper wrote one of the letters quoting Sen. Edmund Muskie in an alleged racial slur on "Canucks." But Egan, according to other statements to the committee, has taken two different positions on his colleague's suspected letter-writing.

At one point, Egan proved he was his credibility's own worst enemy when he described some of his own newspapering "dirty tricks."

"Dirty tricks," he philosophized under oath, "is a new phrase that has been coined, but it is not new to political campaigns. Hell, we have seen this in the newspaper profession right along.

"If you want to get a candidate defeated, just start a little whispering campaign. Start a rumor. I have done it just to sit back and see reactions....Is this a dirty-trick? I don't think so."

FOOTNOTE: In our talks with Egan, he stuck to the story he told the committee. His "wattling" by the Administration, he said, included questions on his tax returns for five consecutive years.

Homemade Atomic Bomb: Report Warns of Ease of Theft Of Fissionable Material for 'Crude' Nuclear Weapon

WASHINGTON--- It is the carefully studied opinion of some of this nation's most experienced official security investigators that protection of fissionable uranium and plutonium is so inadequate, inefficient and sloppy that the critical material could be stolen easily and turned into a "crude nuclear weapon" by anyone with sufficient expertise.

Such expertise and mechanisms necessary could be obtained by the organized crime families which have hundreds of millions of dollars available for bribery and terror. Or the material could be diverted, stolen or simply purchased from crooked guards, executives or employes by a small nation with money to spare and world terrorism in its dictatorial heart.

Warning of the potential danger of such theft and the ease with which it could be accomplished has just come from none other than U. S. Comptroller General Staats's crack agency, the General Accounting Office. The warning was given the Atomic Energy Commission where the security people agreed with the GAO's grim findings.

All this must be read against the backdrop of President Nixon's statement before the AP managing editors' gathering, that he hoped the U. S. would be self-sufficient in energy supply by 1980. Such self- sufficiency would depend heavily on nuclear power plants as well as Alaskan north slope pipeline oil, gas supplies, and coal.

For, by 1980, the AEC expects there will be some 2.2 million pounds of uranium and plutonium spread across the land in facilities of the government and private or commercial licensees and contractors.

Both the GAO and AEC agree that to make such a "crude" bomb would take only 13 pounds of plutonium or 37.4 pounds of uranium.

Right now there are about 95 licensees and contractors who have enough of the deadly material on hand for "one man" to steal. There are another 500 private agencies or firms (including universities) which have enough uranium or plutonium in store that could prove radioactively dangerous to any community if lost or stolen, but don't have enough supplies for weapon- making by a thief or conspirator.

Now, note this from the AEC itself:

"As long as significant quantities of nuclear materials are in active use by the government, by government contractors and by licensed commercial and other interests, there will be a distinct probability that some of those materials will be stolen, unexplainably or accidentally lost, diverted from authorized use or used or disposed of in unauthorized ways.

"The probability of such happenings is increased by the sheer volume of materials being processed and transferred, the number of licensees and contractors involved, and the technical difficulties of measuring quantities and verifying inventories."

Yet during a recent investigation GAO probers found such inadequate protection of this death-dealing fissionable material that one man could pick up "portable" portions and steal into the night past untrained guards and fences which could be almost huffed and puffed down.

At two nuclear material supply and working material facilities, the GAO reported its men found "weak physical barriers, ineffective alarm systems, ineffective guard patrols, a lack of automatic-detection devices, and a lack of a plan of action in the event of an SWM (material---VR) diversion (action/response plan)."

At one plant the GAO found supposedly well- trained guards who carried .38- caliber revolvers--- but were on the payroll as "watchmen" and weren't actually trained in the use of weapons.

This plant stored the fissionable materials in portable containers. In referring to the watchman system, which included checking the fence about once a month, the GAO said, "We believe that...(the) security system was significantly limited in its capability to prevent, detect, and immediately respond to possible SWM diversion or diversion attempts."

The GAO men also tested the fence around one nuclear material facility--- and wrenched it open "within one minute, and at this point the only impediment to entry was a small rivet which, in our opinion, could have been forced manually...sufficient flexibility to permit entry" into the fissionable material store room.

How could this nation of ours fall to such a dangerous, almost lethal, position? How could all this be overlooked at this moment of national energy and international confrontation crunches?

FHA office ready to receive business loan applications

Pre- applications for business and industrial loans in Scott and Mississippi counties may be filed with the Farmers Home Administration Office in Sikeston.

This announcement was made by FHA County Supervisor Bobby R. Hicks, who said provisions of the Rural Development Act will soon be operating in the Sikeston office.

Hicks said a letter of pre-application is the first step in seeking assistance under the new federal program of financing local business development. The proposal should explain in detail the type of industry or business, and the proposed market for goods or services.

"If the prospective business meets eligibility requirements," Hicks said, "the applicant will be requested to submit a formal application."

Applications from public bodies can be filed at the Farmers Home Administration county office, 106 E. Center Street, Sikeston.

Other eligible applicants -- individuals, partnerships, cooperatives, and corporations -- should submit applications to banks or other private lenders. Those whose loans are approved will receive loans from the private lenders, but guaranteed up to 90 per cent by Farmers Home Administration. Funds may be used for working capital, to purchase machinery and equipment, and to buy land, buildings and permanent fixtures.

Ann Landers

Wise parents build respect for each other

Dear Ann Landers: My mother used to say, "Habit is a cable. We weave a strand each day."

Attitudes can become habits. This is the point I want to make.

Unless the father builds up the dignity of the mother by whispering into the child's ear, "Go help your mother with those packages," or, "Open the door for your mother and speak to her with respect," something will be missing later.

The mother must build up the dignity of the father by telling the children what a thoughtful and worthwhile person he is. Making him look good in their eyes--- yes, even better than he is--- is part of the job of a loving mother.

It's amazing how this pays dividends. The children are more respectful of both parents, and the parents become more respectful of each other.

Today I see so many fathers who are regarded as cash registers, and mothers who are thought of as maids. A close look at the situation reveals that these two didn't do very much to help one another look good in the eyes of their children.--- The Bumble Bee

Dear Bee: Truer words were never spoken. Thank you for the wise counsel.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing to you about a problem that is common in every high school and it's been going on for years. I'm talking about young girls who get crushes on their male teachers.

How should a teacher handle love letters by day and phone calls to his home at night? Sometimes the girl even shows up at his home or apartment to "discuss a problem."

Often such a girl has no boyfriends, or she is emotionally disturbed. Male teachers have been transferred and even dismissed when it was learned that a female student had visited his apartment. In one instance that I know of, the teacher was completely innocent of any wrongdoing. The girl was trying to seduce him and he had been urging her to get counseling.

I'm a teacher who has just started in the profession and some of my girl students are very aggressive. I'd appreciate some advice.--- Not In The Curriculum

Dear N.: A male teacher who senses that a female student is becoming enamored of him should conduct himself as if he were a doctor and she a woman patient. Make it clear that there can be no social relationship. If she persists, restate the guidelines in plain language and behave in a formal, even chilly manner---- for her protection as well as your own.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 28 years old, married, and have an 8- year- old son. My problem is that I need to work to help my husband out, but I'm unable to hold a job for more than three months. I can't work where people aren't friendly. I am not the outgoing type and for this reason people think I'm "stuck up." Also I have only a seventh- grade education and am slow at typing and filing. I lost my last two jobs because I didn't turn in enough work.

Is something wrong with me? What can I do to help myself?--- Failure

Dear Friend: Try applying for a job where they have facilities to give aptitude tests to determine what type of work the applicants are best suited for. I have a hunch you'd be better at something other than an office job. Please consider it.

A no- nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers's booklet, "Marriage--- What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654, enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Children learn best by self-discovery

By SHAREN K. HUNT
Area Home Economist

Special foods and family get- togethers symbolize the holiday season. How about combining both for your youngster? Cooking activities can be fun for you and your child. Instead of shoving them out of the kitchen, involve them in food learning. All young children are interested in eating. They learn by doing and through sensory experiences.

One of the earliest ways of identifying is by color. Foods, especially fruits and vegetables, present all colors. Children learn green and yellow vegetables are good for them and that apples can be red, yellow or green.

Shape can be dealt with by noticing football shapes of lemons, long celery stalks and skinny green beans. Size is another way that children use to describe. A watermelon is probably the biggest food in the world to most children.

Guessing which is powdered milk or sugar can teach problem solving. After all, how can you tell unless you taste, and self- discovery is the best way.

After cooking countless meals, we often don't notice the feels of different foods. Some are slippery, lumpy, dry, wet, sticky. Children need many experiences in learning to develop their sense of touch and, at the same time, renew our own sense of appreciation. Kneading dough, shaping cookies or hamburger patties are sure- fire ways to involve children in manipulative experiences.

Listening to food is another way children learn. Hearing soup bubbling, water boiling, bacon frying, fresh fruits and vegetables crunch, or popcorn popping reinforces the meanings as well as expand their vocabulary.

Skills are also by-products of the food curriculum. Scrubbing, whether it's a tabletop or a potato, can be learned. Pouring skills are developed through food activities and give children a grown- up sense of independence and importance.

A difficult, but important, skill is spreading. They need lots of experience doing this, but bread tastes so much better if you put on your own butter and jelly.

Cracking nuts, paring carrots, shucking corn, cracking eggs, mixing and stirring are just a few of the confidence and skill building activities you can do in your kitchen.

Time and math concepts can be discussed when you need to bake cookies for 15 minutes or an egg for three or when you need to measure water into gelatin powder.

Simple science ideas like eggs changing form as they are beaten, and steam and ice are forms of water that take little time but are so important.

All of these values children get from cooking won't be, unless they actually do the work. They don't learn if they only get to stir once or twice and taste the final product.

There's an old Chinese proberb that is appropriate when it comes to providing learning experiences for children:

"I hear and I forget; I see and I remember; I do, and I understand."

Casually Yours!

Homemakers given tips on creativity

BELL CITY- "This Way to a Better Home" is the theme of a series of meetings being held for homemakers in the Bell City DAEOC Center. Mrs. Fredericka Plummer of Charleston, an area home economist, is the instructor for the series of five meetings. The last session will be held Dec. 7. The program will consist of slides of low- cost decorating ideas.

At the first session on Nov. 7, nine homemakers cleaned two occasional chairs with thick soap suds. They took home samples of a window cleaner and scouring powder that were mixed at the meeting to be tested. They also tried out a furniture polish on the wooden parts of the chairs during the meeting. It consisted of equal parts of turpentine, boiled linseed oil and white vinegar.

At the Nov. 9 session, 12 homemakers each made a dustless dust cloth and net ball. They watched demonstrations of how to patch wallboard and how to repair an electric plug. Some tried repairing a plug.

Six homemakers attended the Nov. 11 meeting. They mixed colors to use in making a plaque and sanded and put a sealer finish on the board for the plaque.

Attending the series on "This Way to a Better Home" have been Marie Daniel of Advance; Bea Carter, Rosa George, Flossie Gregory, Pearlean Gross, Anna Mae Jackson, Barbara Jackson, Lurine Jinkins, Mary Jordon, Marge Lemmons, Ethel Limbaugh, Vernetha Ray, Virginia Segers and Louise Wiley of Bell City; Joyce Coleman and Ola Mae Morris of Bloomfield; Lula Mae Rutledge of Parma; and Ceola Tate of Sikeston.

County Court to appeal land damage assessment

CHARLESTON — Commissioners H. V. Morrow of Bertrand and Ralph Adkisson and A. J. Drinkwater Jr. of Charleston, appointed Nov. 16 by Circuit Court Judge Marshall Craig to determine the amount of damages due to landowners of property adjoining the proposed airport site, filed a report Monday in the office of Circuit Clerk Ellis W. Howlett assessing the damages at $13,000.

Following the filing, the County Court met Tuesday afternoon and authorized Prosecuting Attorney W. Clifton Banta Jr. to appeal the assessed damages.

The commissioners were instructed to determine the fair market value of the property and to take into consideration the interference and inconvenience that may result to the operation of the land following construction of the airport.

The Mississippi County Court had filed the condemnation suit seeking to obtain clear zone easements to the property at the south end of the proposed runway from defendants Gladys Crumpecker, Floyd and Marilyn Stallings, Billie Marie and Larry Chapman, Martin Stalling, David Blanton, trustee, and Bernice M. Stewart.

The condemnation suit will prohibit the owners of the adjoining property from erecting, maintaining or allowing any building, structure or object to remain on the real estate and prohibits any growth other than normal farm crops. It does not take ownership of the property away from the defendants. Approximately 10 acres of land was involved in the suit.

With the securing of the easement, federal state and Ozarks Regional Commission funds can be released for the actual construction of the airport which is to be located approximately midway between East Prairie and Charleston on property purchased from Rolwing Bros. Farms.

McMullin Construction Co. of Sikeston was the only firm to submit a bid when bids were opened last month. The bid of $256,159.83 has been taken under advisement and is being checked by R. W. Booker and Associates of St. Louis, engineers for the project.

How do I love thee?
Let me count the ways —
I love thee though thee spits on my geraniums each time thee passes by them —
I love thee in spite of thy dirty laundry thee trails from room to room and leaves for me to pick up —
I love thee even though thee has to be told to go to bed not once, but twenty times before thee finally places thy head upon thy pillow —
I love thee even when thy nose curls up and thy mouth spouts indignities when called to the table and confronted with pot roast and carrots —
I love thee in spite of long shaggy hair, torn bluejeans and dirty fingernails —
I love thee even though thee seems to be deaf on occasion and must be brought to earth like a rabbit —
I love thee even if thy entire conversation deals only with snakes and fish and coons and deer —
I love thee when in good health, or when holding thy sick head over a basin —
I love thee while I wash, or clean, or cook, or entertain for thee —
I love thee although thee brings home extra animals or other nuisances for me to tend and care for —
I love thee — let's face it — I just plain love thee period!!!

Many holiday travelers didn't drive

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The fear of running out of gas prompted many holiday travelers to ride trains or buses rather then drive cars for Thanksgiving Day trips. And they probably didn't regret it.

Some cars coughed and sputtered to a standsill on freeways around the country as the fuel shortage became a reality for many drivers.

"We were getting two or three calls a minute this afternoon from motorists stranded without gas," spokesman Alex Parley of the Connecticut Automobile Association said Thursday night.

Many gas stations were reported closed, but whether for lack of fuel or because of the holiday could not be determined.

A spokesman for the American Automobile Association office in Columbus, Ohio, said 50 per cent of Thursday's calls were emergency appeals for gas. He said at 8 p.m. only one gas station in the area was open.

Some of those able to find gas had to pay dearly for it.

Station owner Harry Simmermon of Monroe Township, N.J., found no lack of business despite prices described as "Thanksgiving blackmail" by one local official.

Simmeron charged 82 cents a gallon for regular and 86 cents a gallon for premium gasoline at his Shell station on Black Horse Pike. Normally he sells regular gas for 38.9 cents a gallon and premium for 45.9 cents.

Those who decided on public transportation didn't have to worry about gas, but they had to hassle with crowds.

Amtrack, the nation's passenger rail service, got "every available coach they had out of mothballs" to handle the load, one regional supervisor said.

A spokesman said Amtrak's system- wide reservations center received 27,000 calls for information on Thanksgiving Day, about 15,000 more than expected.

Standing room only was the case on many of Amtrak's trains, especially the Washington - Philadelphia- New York route.

Greyhound Bus Lines in New York said it expected 50 per cent more travelers than usual for the holiday period.

An additional complication in bus travel was the voluntarily imposed 50 mile per hour speed limit on highway's making for late arrivals. "We've gotten so screwed up on schedules because of the lowered speed limits, that people don't know what the hell is going on," said one dispatcher at Port Authority in New York City.

Motorists in many areas seemed to be complying with the lowered speeds, now mandatory in at least 10 states.

Amtrak employes at various stations around the country indicated it wasn't just the Thanksgiving holiday that accounted for the increase in traffic.

"We're booked solid on all long-distance runs through Dec. 31. The gas shortage has had an awful lot to do with it," said Diane Ruddy, an Amtrak controller in Seattle.

Amtrak employes in Philadelphia said some trains to New York were booked full for weeks and that many passengers were willing to stand all the way if necessary.

Proxmire says Bork is holding his job illegally

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., says acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork is holding his job illegally and wants President Nixon to take "appropriate action" to comply with the law.

The Wisconsin Democrat said in a letter to Nixon released today that Bork's "lawful tenure as acting attorney general is limited to 30 days and the 30 days was up this past Monday, Nov. 19."

Bork, who as solicitor general is the No. 3 man in the Justice Department, became acting attorney general Oct. 20 when Elliot L. Richardson and William D. Ruckelshaus resigned as attorney general and deputy attorney general.

A federal judge ruled in June that the acting head of the Office of Economic Opportunity, Howard J. Phillips, could not continue in office past the 30-day limit because Nixon did not submit his name for Senate confirmation.

In the Phillips case, U.S. District Judge William Jones ruled that the president's power concerning interim appointments, "if it exists at all, exists only in emergency situations."

The administration has taken the position that, since Bork became acting attorney general by being the highest remaining Justice Department official rather than through appointment, the 30-day limit does not apply to Bork.

President Nixon has announced the choice of Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, as the new attorney general but has delayed sending the nomination to the Senate pending action on a measure to lower the attorney general's pay to its pre1969 level of $35,000.

Auto makers begin to face parts shortages

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's auto manufacturers are starting to run up against parts shortages caused partly by the energy crunch.

Industry observers say the situation, which has not caused any major problems yet, will deteriorate with a worsening of energy shortages.

Thus far the major shortages are in materials derived from natural gas and petroleum. They are used for interior trim and wiring.

"The plastics industry is extremely dependent on petroleum, and that may prove to be a problem in the future," said one auto industry spokesman.

General Motors and Ford say they are suffering acute shortages of interior materials like dash boards and panels, which are made from plastics. In some cases the automakers said they have assembled cars minus an armrest or dashboard. The parts were installed later when they arrived at assembly plants.

A more serious problem reported by Ford, GM and Chrysler is a shortage of wiring harnesses. The wiring harness is the basic electrical system of the car, connecting the battery to the headlights, taillights, dashboard and other systems.

Industry spokesmen attribute the problem to a shortage of polyvinyl chloride, which is used to insulate the wire. Since the wiring harness is the first system installed during assembly, the shortage has an immediate impact on plant work.

"If you're missing an arm rest, you can go ahead and build the car," said one spokesman. "But if you're missing a wiring harness you can't."

Industry spokesmen say a major factor in the vinyl problem is a jump in demand for the substance. They said part of that jump is an increase in use of plastic pipes for home construction. One spokesman also said the auto industry's need for polyvinyl chloride insulation was increased by the ignition-interlock seatbelt systems required in all 1974 models.

Some plant officials said they are running out of vinyl for car tops and seat covers. Industry officials are now looking at the possibility of limiting vinyl trim options.

Accident kills mine employe

SULLIVAN, Mo. (AP)—An 11-year employe of the Meramec Mining Co.'s Pearidge Mine was fatally injured Thursday in an accident at the mine's 2,200-foot level, a company spokesman said.

Vernon E. Spoon, 47, according to the spokesman, was crushed between an iron ore car and the mine's wall.

Spoon, a foreman, died about three hours later at Community Hospital. He was the father of seven.

Sermon calls for 'Thanksliving'

The sermon, "Thanksgiving--Thankaliving", delivered by the Rev. Otto L. Dvorak, pastor of First United Methodist Church, at Wednesday night's annual union Thanksgiving service at First Church of the Nazarene, was based on scriptures from Psalms 100, 1 Corinthians 6:19- 20, Matthew 6:33 and Romans 14:12.

Here is the sermon text:

In the various mission endeavors of our Church I have been led, more and more, to the realization that Religion Is Universal. We may not have common creeds, but we all have a common quest.

That quest, I am convinced, is the quest for a good life, a fulfilled life, a life that is good not only for ourselves, but for our neighbors.

Religion is INSTRUMENTAL; FUNCTIONAL. The end result of all "True religion" should be MINISTRY, ministry to the total man. Religious disciplines or practices should lead men to have communion with & comprehension of the good life; but also commitment to & communication of this "good life" in all our relationships.

True religion does not ask "What can I gain?"...but rather "what can I give?" True religion is our human expression of thankfulness to the Divine Creator for the gift of life.

A. Thanksgiving is "Thanks-Living"

The disciplines of "religious living" (inside or outside the church) become the expression of our THANKSGIVING FOR THE GIFT OF LIFE. The best THANKSGIVING in essence is THANKS- LIVING.

St. Paul reminds us that "we are not our own..we have been bought with a price"...therefore out of gratitude to God, we ought to glorify HIM in & through our body, or our living. In another New Testament passage he says, "In everything GIVE THANKS". This is to say, "LIVE YOUR THANKS". Geo. Matheson in a great hymn sings, "I give Thee back the life I owe."

I believe that no man really lives until he begins to see life in the perspective of THANSKGIVING which produces purposeful THANKSLIVING. A man really begins to LIVE when he sees life not as a passing scene he is privileged to view, nor as a span of suffering he must endure, but as a bit of eternity he thankfully inhabits for a purpose. When we come alive to purpose, we come alive to God. I believe this is why Jesus said, "SEEK YE FIRST THE KINGDOM OF GOD...and all these other things shall be yours as well"...He knew that to perceive the purpose is imperative. After that, everything else falls into line.

Tolstoy in his "WHAT MEN LIVE BY" has the Angel speak to Simon & his wife. "People only SEEM to live when they care only for themselves...It is by love for others that we really live. He who has LOVE has God in him, & is in God..because God is Love." Here Tolstoy was quoting directly from St. John. He who has found a loving purpose for his life, a loving purpose outside himself, has really found both GOD & LIFE...

B. "LIFE IS LIKE A WOODS"

I think sometimes the poets say this better than anyone. Poets are our greatest theologians. I like Robert Frost, particularly his poem about New England & the winter time, in which he writes about life and its deep meanings. It seems like such a silly little ditty in some respects...Four brief stanzas, in which Frost portrays a horseman driving his sleigh through the fields in the late evening..The snow swirls through the trees & blankets the ground as twilight falls. It is a beautiful scene, as the driver stops at the edge of the woods & reflects...

"Whose woods these are I think I know.

His house is in the village though;

He will not see me stopping here

The poet paints beautifully the moment of reflection. A man stopping his horse on a snowy evening, looking at the woods fill up with snow, gets a glimpse of life. The closing lines of the poem have become immortal

"The woods are lovely, dark & deep,

But I have promises to keep,

And miles to go before I sleep,

And miles to go before I sleep..."

A young Navy doctor reflected upon the words & saw in them deep meaning for his life. They became for him a kind of "swan song to meaningless existence", driving him to spend his "disease- shortened span of years" to do the most that he could, for what he, Dr. Tom Dooley, termed, the "wretched and unloved of Asia." As he looked at life, he, like the sleigh driver in Frost's poem, saw the woods, "lovely, dark & deep"...

I believe the life of all men could be described this way..like a woods..Lovely with possibility...dark with pain.. and deep with purpose..."possibility, pain and purpose" "lovely, dark and deep" ...Can you see it?

jC. OUR RESPONSE TO LIFE.

As this line expresses the DESIGN of life, so in the next lines are expressed the responses for which life calls...a THANKSGIVING which consummates or results in THANKS—LIVING. How does a man react or respond to life? Frost's answer is beautifully expressed; "But I have promises to keep...and miles to go...before I sleep."

1. PROMISES TO KEEP.

As St. Paul says, "We are not our own.. we are bought with a price..." So the Psalmist says in many ways that we have a stewardship, an obligation to the ONE who created us. In Ps. 24 we read: "The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof." The whole creation process has purpose. Ps. 100 says "It is He that hath made us and not we ourselves. We are his people and the sheep of His pasture." The creature has a CREATOR who has created purposefully. We have a purpose to fulfill. EACH ONE OF US..."We have promises to keep..."

2. MILES TO GO.

The poet then says..."Miles to go..." He is here reminding us that life, REAL LIFE, is a struggle, a battle, not easily accomplished..but with effort.

We live in an age that demands excellence. HIGH STANDARDS are required of us in almost every area of endeavor.

In terms of spiritual disciplines and qualities of living, we look for easy ways out...we shrug off and shirk responsibility and involvement..Affluence ruins us by making us selfish..Technology destroys us by making us lazy and indolent. Convenience enslaves us by making us its servant...

The hymn- writer was correct: "Shame our wanton, selfish gladness, rich in things and poor in soul..." or another who wrote: "From ease and plenty save us, from pride of place absolve; purge us of low desire; lift us to HIGH RESOLVE."

We need to recover the old doctrine of sanctification, or Christian perfection...in secular terms, "DOING OUR BEST. I am glad that as a youth growing up I was never allowed to forget that "life demanded the BEST of me"...Now, I have not always lived up to this...This is more than a religious doctrine..It is LIFE itself. We have miles to go...Each man..our starting point may be different.. and we may not all arrive at the same final goal..but we are all called to run the race....

Yes... we have "miles to go"...

3. BEFORE WE SLEEP.

The third great idea in Frost's quatrain implies that the race ends...There is a judgment..There is a time of sleeping, a time of accounting.."miles to go..before I sleep". So St. Paul says in Romans "For each of us will stand before the judgment seat...Each and every one of us shall give an account of himself." Thanks-Living is always in the context of "impending accountability."

Grateful living is always aware of CONSEQUENCE. This says simply that "all relationships have consequences" and "reap judgments" An old proverb puts it, "He who picks up one end of the stick, picks up the other end as well."

For many of us an O. T. story of Daniel reading handwriting on the wall is loaded with dramatic overtones. The moving finger writes, and no one can read the language of judgment..No one but Daniel..And so Daniel, called from the dungeon says to Belshazzar, the king, that the hand has written the words: "Thou art weighed in the balances and found wanting."

Every life gets weighed sooner or later...and is measured in terms of its response. Every man lives his life either positively or negatively. He performs or he perverts...He lives wealthily or poorly..worthily or wastefully....

A great writer at the end of her career, lamented the fact that of all the stories she had written, she could not think of a single one that she would let God read. "There is not one worth showing to God", she cried..which was to say, "She had weighed herself in the balances and found herself wanting."

What about the story of your life and mine this evening? Is it worth showing to God? IS IT FULFILLING A PURPOSE?

In each of our lives there are areas that need "improving" or "strengthening." Perhaps I have not dealt fairly with someone, or I have been negligent. Perhaps I have been thoughtless or unconcerned..For all of us, LIFE AS WE LIVE IT needs to be questioned. Perhaps, for ourselves this evening, we need to call our own lives into question?

Do we have purpose?

How do we use Time?

Where are we going?

D. "THE KINGDOM RESPONSE"

One of my favorite Bible stories is the story of Esther, who despite the fact that she was a Jewess, the daughter of an alien race of people in a captive land, nevertheless, wins the heart of the King and becomes Queen..Queen of all Persia.

She was beautiful and life for her was lovely in the palace. We might say "The woods were lovely"...

But Life was also DARK..dark with pain. There came the time when lovely Esther confronted a painful and perplexing problem. Her husband, the King, unaware that his own wife, the Queen, is of Jewish faith and heritage, has procliamed that ALL PEOPLE WHO WORSHIP THE JEWISH GOD MUST DIE.

Mordecai, who is Esther's foster- father, confronts her in a great and moving passage saying that she cannot escape the call of noble obligation. Even though she is a Queen, she is STILL A JEW. Though the Word GOD is not used in the entire book, Mordecai implies that she is still one of God's people. He tells Esther that she cannot hope to escape her responsibility by hiding in the palace yard. For even though her life might be spared, because of her position and beauty, if her people die, she will die too..inwardly. Mordecai tells here, in substance, that it is

CONCERN FOR PEOPLE

Area Jehovah's Witnesses attend convention in Arnold

A delegation of Sikeston area residents were among 2,667 persons attending the convention of Jehovah's Witnesses Nov. 3-4 at Arnold.

Howard Baker, convention manager, is quoted as saying, "Young and old alike took part in presenting the convention theme, 'Keep Close in Mind Jehovah's Day.'"

David Thornton, presiding overseer of the local congregation said, "The convention was a success in that all in attendance received further aid to continue living Christian lives at a time when the world of mankind seems to be loosing its grip on moral restraint."

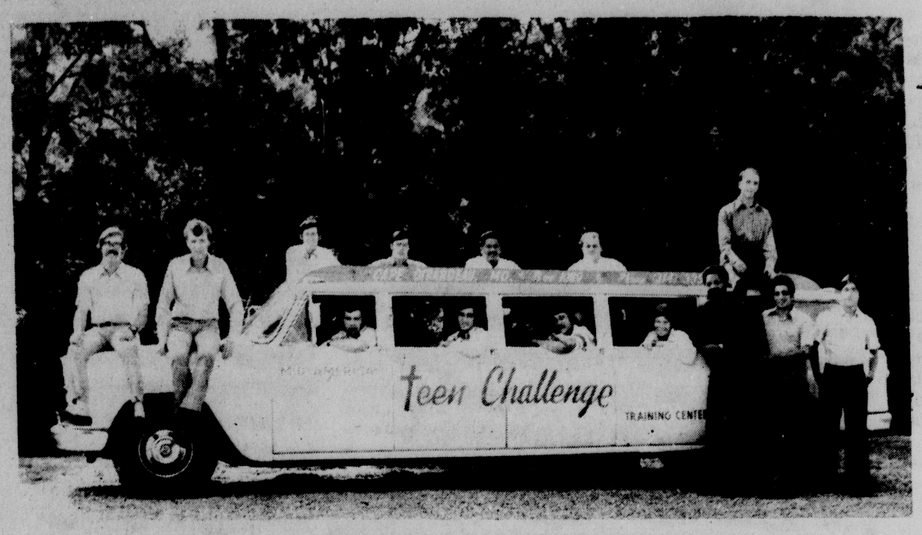
An important event in the lives of 130 new members took place Sunday morning when they symbolized their dedication to Jehovah God by undergoing water baptism. Only after completing a prescribed Bible study course were they permitted to take this memorable step. They will now join the 1.7 million ministers already engaged in the door to door ministry of teaching others.

The highlight of the program came Sunday at 2 p.m. when Denis Raftopoulos of the world headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses in New York, presented the discourse, "Act Wisely As the End Draws Near."

Frank Picel, circuit overseer of Jehovah's Witnesses in eastern and southeastern Missouri, pointed out in his discourse "Do You Insist on Your Rights?" that true Christians display love for each other in solving difficulties rather then insisting on their rights.

Singing event set at Salcedo

SALCEDO — The Singing Faithmen of Cape Girardeau will be at the Salcedo Baptist Church for a gospel singing program Sunday at 6:30 p.m., according to an announcement by the Rev. Watis R. Harrell, pastor.



Teen Challenge Rally set

The Rev. Philip Breithaupt and The New Creations, the regional representative and choir from the Mid- America Teen Challenge Center at Cape Girardeau, will present a Teen Challenge Rally during Sunday School at 9:30 a.m and the 10:30 a.m. worship service Sunday at First Assembly of God Church, 306 S. Kinghighway.

Teen Challenge group to visit First Assembly

A Teen Challenge Rally will be held at First Assembly of God Church, 306 S. Kingshighway, Sunday at 9:30 and 10:30 a.m., hosting the Rev. Philip Breithaupt, the regional representative, and The New Creations of Mid- America Teen Challenge Training Center at Cape Girardeau, the Rev. T. A. McDonough, pastor, has announced.

The New Creations, the official choir of Mid-America teen challenge, will sing at the rally. They will express both in sacred music and testimony how they have found mental and physical cure from drug addiction at the Teen Challenge Center through Christ, according to Pastor McDonough.

Also, the rally will inform people of the unique purpose and reason for the existence of the Teen Challenge program.

The choir members are former law breakers, drug addicts, alcoholics and other delinquent youth. The Rev. Mr. Breithaupt, the choir director, has served as tenor soloist with the Revivaltime choir on the ABC Network and has recorded two long play albums. He has addressed civic clubs, high school assemblies, universities, student organizations and churches of many denominations in behalf of this program.

Mid- America Teen Challenge Training Center is directed by the Rev. Herb Meppelink, founder of Detroit Teen Challenge. It serves as the rehabilitation, training and re- entry program for the induction centers of over 14, Midwestern States.

The training center is located at Cape Girardeau, just west of the Mississippi River on a beautiful farm which provides a wholesome atmosphere where former hippies, addicts, alcoholics and other delinquent male youth of all races find a lasting solution to their problems, according to Pastor McDonough.

Teen Challenge is a non-profit, religious- oriented rehabillitation program for drug addicts and other delinquent youth. It has launched a nationwide campaign to aid youth through a moral and spiritual approach. The Rev. David Wilkerson, founder of the program in 1958, has authored 12 books and is considered a foremost authority on youth today.

His first book, "The Cross and the Switchblade," which tells the history of Teen Challenge, a seven- million copy best- seller, has been translated into 32 different languages and was recently made into a feature- length movie starring Pat Boone.

Teen Challenge has 55 rehabilitation centers in the United States and Puerto Rico and 23 programs in eight foreign countries. The national average cure rate for hard core addicts who complete the Teen Challenge program is 54 per cent, ranging from 10 per cent in a newly established center to 90 per cent in the most developed programs.

The integrated, free, non-sectarian spiritual services and physical aid given by the Teen Challenge program is made possible by gifts from churches, foundations and interested individuals.

The Rev. Mr. McDonough will introduce the Rev. Mr. Breithaupt and The New Creations to the public.

Also, the pastor will conduct a water baptismal service in the evening service which begins at 7 o'clock.

Sermon

better to die nobly, than to die the slow death of regret. And then he says..."Who Knows But That Thou Hast Come To The Kingdom For Such A Time as This?" (Esther 4:14). Of all the moments of this woman's life, this was the moment for which she had been born.

So the lovely Queen goes before the King and faces death on behalf of her people. She dares to do what even a Queen cannot do. Unbidden, she stands before the King to make a request, to challenge his edict. With courage, she makes her stand. "If I perish, I perish". In the beautiful story, neither does SHE die nor do her people die. The King listens to her plea, honors it, and spares both Esther and her people.

In that moment, she is truely born. She does the noble thing. She comes alive to purpose. Therefore, it is in that moment that she begins to live. Her life is not only lovely with possibility and dark with pain. She discovers within it a "depth of purpose".

FOR US TOO

I like Mordecai's great question to Esther. "Who knows but that thou hast come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"

I know that many times this verse is used as a challenge to youth about to enter into some new phase of live..vocation, education..marriage...But really, it is a question for all of us. Perhaps we ought to ask at the beginning of every day, every new experience...ARE WE MAKING A KINGDOM RESPONSE?

Let us make this Thanksgiving period in our life a "Thanks- Living occasion, an occasion to begin living more thankfully... a time of making a KINGDOM RESPONSE... for we, too, "have promises to keep, and miles to go before we sleep." Let us pray---

The truck Sailors was driving east on Interstate 240 and an eastbound gasoline truck sideswiped on the bridge and jackknifed. Following the collision, Sailors apparently saw the gasoline truck catch fire and jumped out the cab of his truck without realizing that it has crashed through the bridge railing and was hanging over the side of the bridge.

Arabs warn west against taking countermeasures

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Saudi Arabia's oil minister says the Arabs could reduce their oil production by as much as 80 per cent if America, Japan or Europe take measures to counteract reductions and embargoes in Arab oil production.

"Our oil weapon is far more powerful than what you see now. In fact we did nothing at all so far," Ahmed Saki Yamani said in Copenhagen Thursday. "We could cut production by 80 per cent."

Yamani issued the warning during a television interview when he was asked to respond to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's comment suggesting U.S. retaliation if the Arab oil squeeze continues.

Kissinger said Wednesday, "It is clear that if pressures continue unreasonably and indefintely, that then the United States will have to consider what countermeasures it may have to take."

Some suggested countermeasures have been halts in exports of food grains and other materials to Arab countries.

Yamani said he did not doubt there are countermeasures available, but he said any such actions would be a gamble that might force the economies of areas such as Western Europe and Japan to collapse.

The Arab oil producers have stopped oil shipments to the United States and the Netherlands and reduced overall production by 25 per cent, with another 5 per cent reduction planned each month until Israel withdraws from Arab territory captured since 1967.

Saudi Arabia's King Faisal said in Lebanon he will never compromise on the oil restrictions against the United States, Japan and Western Europe until the Arab demands concerning Israel are "unconditionally met."

But in London, British and Indian diplomatic sources said Saudi Arabia, by far the largest Arab oil producer, is unlikely to continue using oil as a diplomatic weapon because of fears by Faisal of provoking reprisals.

In other developments, the Shah of Iran, whose country is the only non-Arab oil producer in the Persian Gulf, called upon Arabs to abandoned their use of oil as a diplomatic weapon. "Oil is like bread," he said. "It should not be withheld in peacetime."

In Canada, Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau said his government will reveal a series of measures next week aimed at ensuring adequate supplies of gasoline and heating oil this winter. The government is expected to prohibit the sale of gasoline on Sundays and make petroleum allocations at the wholesale level.

In Brussels, Common Market officials told representatives from its nine member countries that the organization's Commission on Transport was trying to determine what common actions may be taken to combat the oil shortage.

The West German government hinted that it may soon broaden its fuel conservation powers. Chancellor Willy Brandt told his cabinet that the oil squeeze could seriously affect the German economy. He did not rule out "social, structural and economic repercussions."

Election ballots in mail to area farmers

Directors of four county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Services have announced that farmers are being mailed election ballots for the 1974 community committee positions. Voting will be conducted by mail during a 10- day period extending from today through Dec. 3.

The ballot and election material being mailed contains complete instructions for voting. Careful attention to voting instructions is emphasized to assure a valid ballot. Election ballots postmarked after Dec. 3 cannot be counted, making prompt mailing of importance.

ASCS personnel are making an effort to furnish a ballot to all farm owners and operators carried on office records. In general, anyone participating in Agricultural production other than as a hired worker is eligible to vote. Ballots will be furnished by the ASCS Office upon request to anyone establishing voter eligibility.

Tabulation of voting will be conducted on Dec. 7 at the ASCS Office and can be observed by the public if desired.

County and community committeemen serve in an advisory and policy capacity in the administration of farm programs.

For Shy, last year was a disaster. The Mississippi River backed up into his pecan groves and carried away all of his nuts. Hopes of recovering this year with a normal crop of 40,000 to 50,000 pounds are gone. He will get only about 10,000 pounds of Stuarts and native pecans this year.

Shy says poor crops have also occurred in parts of Mississippi where cotton defoliants have been used.

Haubold says his crop amounted to only about 800 pounds this year, compared to a normal crop of 3,500 to 4,000 pounds.

There have been two consolations for Haubold. He says the pecans have all been of good quality and he is getting a good price for them.

See the new 1974 DODGES.
FINEST IN 60 YEARS.

Back in 1914, when the first Dodge motorcar was built, there were over 100 different new makes making their initial debut. Today, Dodge is one of only a few of the early makes still being manufactured.

We've changed a lot of things in our 60 years. One thing we didn't change: Dodge Dependability.

'74 DODGE CORONET!
Once again, we have the right car for its time.

In our 60 years of bringing people dependable motorcars, few, if any, have had the rare combination of good looks and practicality you'll see in our new '74 Dodge Coronet sedans and station wagons. Coronet is a mid-size, so it has maneuverability much like that of smaller cars and almost the roominess of full-sized cars. "Plenty of car, sensibly priced" —that's what makes the '74 Dodge Coronet such an outstanding buy! Come see our mid-sized four-door sedans and wagons real soon.

Taylor leading scorer

The 1973 Southeast Missouri prep football season is history now and Illmo-Scott City was the only one of the 18 Bootheel teams to complete the season undefeated.

Danforth reported pondering future

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, who started the Republican party comeback in Missouri, now is wondering how to stay alive politically.

After winning the attorney general's post in 1968, Danforth lost a close race in 1970 to the veteran Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo. in being re-elected last year, Danforth got more votes than anybody on the ballot in Missouri, even President Nixon.

His vote-getting ability helped the GOP win three of the top five elective offices, including the governor's chair, which had been filled by Democrats for 28 years.

Danforth wants one more shot at a Senate seat. But he's faced with the unhappy prospect that to challenge Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton next year might finish him. He does not want to be a two-time loser. He indicated that if he runs for the Senate again and loses, he will leave politics.

"I don't want to be a constant candidate..I don't want to die in politics," he said in an interview.

"I intend to run for the Senate in either 1974 or 1976. Nobody is pressing me for an early decision on 1974."

Danforth said Eagleton is very strong and he didn't dispute the report of a poll leaked to the news media showing the incumbent Democrat has a 2-1 edge over him in a possible Senate race.

Eagleton forces would not release other information on the poll. Danforth said other poll information he recently received was not encouraging, nor was a recent visit to Washington to get the view from there.

Danforth said he asked party leaders for some good reasons to make the race in 1974 and he got none, although he did get the standard remarks that the party needs him.

Danforth said there are others in the party who could make the race and he mentioned Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps and Rosemary Ginn of Columbia, Republican national committeewoman.

He said he wasn't sure if Phelps was still interested, but would like to see Mrs. Ginn make the race.

"She's a very bright person and a very decent person," Danforth said. "I admire her. She is the kind of person I would like to be."

Phelps said this week, "It's too early" for him to make a decision on whether he would run, if Danforth doesn't.

The more Danforth talked the less he held out the possibility he might challenge Eagleton. And he said he would probably not run for a third term as attorney general in 1976.

"I don't know who long I should stay," he said, adding that he had "no personal desire to be governor."

On Danforth's bookshelf was a large photo of Gov. Christopher S. Bond, who started as a Danforth assistant attorney general, won the auditor's race in 1970 and shot to the governor's chair in 1972.

While Bond, who at 34 is three years younger than Danforth, says he has no plans in 1976 other than running for reelection, some top Democrats don't buy it. They say the second term often diminishes one's popularity and that Bond might find it advantageous to try for Symington's seat.

Will Davis, former executive director of the state Democratic party, said Danforth and Bond—two men from wealthy families—"inevitably are on a collision course."

But Danforth rejects this, saying "Kit Bond and I are not presently interested in the same jobs. I don't foresee that we would be interested in the same jobs."

Davis said the Republicans can "throw full-time (Phelps) to the wolves."

He called Phelps "a political accident" in that he was elected lieutenant governor.

If Bond runs for the Senate in 1976, Phelps is expected to be the GOP candidate for governor.

James I. Spainhower, Democratic state treasurer, is not that certain it will be Danforth and Bond vying for the same seat in 1976. He doesn't count Danforth out of the 1974 race.

"Jack will run if he's close enough to shoot at it," Spainhower said.

Democrats describe Danforth as being "in a box," or "between a rock and a hard place."

Asked if it would be fair for him, apparently the strongest Republican candidate, to sit out the 1974 Senate race, Danforth said he did not feel it his responsibility to carry the party on his shoulders alone.

"I don't think a political party can consistently put all its eggs in the basket of one person or even two," he said.

Danforth would not say the 1974 race has been his toughest decision, only that "my problem is focusing on it."

Along with his political aspirations, Danforth has been thinking about what to do with the rest of his life.

He's an ordained Episcopal minister and said he is concerned about the role of both religion and education in society.

"When I get out of politics I want to do something other than grub for a buck," he said.

He wants to be involved in some kind of public service endeavor.

"I don't want to die in politics," he said. "I don't want to be carried out feet first."

NO THREAT TO DALI, maybe, but apparently the chimp does have a following at this painting school for children in Munich, West Germany.

Poll shows that more favor Nixon to remain in office

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nationwide poll indicates that more Americans believe President Nixon should remain in office than resign, but the gap between the two opinions continues to narrow.

Pollster Louis Harris reported Thursday that the call for Nixon's resignation in view of the Watergate affair rose to 43 per cent in a sampling of 1,459 adults taken between Nov. 12 and Nov. 15.

On the last day of that period, Nixon spoke to the National Association of Realtors convention here in the first of a series of formal public appearances in which he has responded to Watergate allegations.

The 43 per cent favoring resignation contrasted with 36 per cent in October, 31 per cent in September, 28 per cent in August and 14 per cent last May, Harris said.

The November survey showed 47 per cent opposed resignation, compared with 50 per cent in October, 56 per cent in September, 63 per cent in August and 75 per cent in May.

Ten per cent in the latest sampling were undecided.

Asked their feelings concerning resignation should it be proven that Nixon was aware of Watergate cover-up efforts in the White House, Harris said 59 per cent favored his departure and 33 per cent did not.

Twenty-three per cent of the persons polled said they believed Nixon's statement that two of the nine subpoenaed Watergate tape recordings never existed, but 55 per cent expressed disbelief, Harris said.

The poll was taken before disclosure on Wednesday that an 18-minute segment of one of the seven existing tapes had been obliterated by an unexplained tone.

J. Fred Buzhardt, a presidential lawyer, told U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica that he and another lawyer discovered the gap in the conversation on Nov. 14 while preparing an index and analysis of the tapes.

The tape involved is of a conversation between Nixon and then-White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman on June 20, 1972, three days after the break-in at Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate office building.

Buzhardt's disclosure prompted Sirica to suggest that Nixon voluntarily turn over all subpoenaed tapes or documents to the court or the court should take custody of the materials and place them under 24-hour guard.

In explanation, Sirica said: "This is just another instance that convinces the court that it has to take some steps, not because the court doesn't trust the White House or the President ... The court is interested in seeing that nothing else happens."

Sirica said the matter would be pursued in court Monday.

Richardson says Nixon ignored advice about Cox

NEW YORK (AP) — Former U.S. Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson says President Nixon ignored his top aide's advice and tried to limit the investigation of ex-special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, the New York Times said today.

Richardson quotes the White House chief of staff, Alexander M. Haig Jr., as saying he urged Nixon to cancel an order to Cox to halt court litigation aimed at obtaining Watergate tapes and related documents.

"Haig said he had tried, but the President wouldn't yield on that," Richardson said in a Times interview at his McLean, Va. home.

When asked for comment, the Times said, Haig replied, "I don't discuss what discussions I had with the President."

According to Richardson, Haig was turned down by Nixon on Oct. 19.

On Oct. 20, Nixon ordered Cox dismissed. Richardson resigned in protest, and William Ruckelshaus left his job as assistant U.S. attorney general after he also refused to fire Cox. The prosecutor was dismissed by the solicitor general, Robert H. Bork, hastily elevated to acting attorney general.

Richardson said in the Times interview that the White House sought to answer the Cox subpoena of some tapes and documents by offering a White House summary that would be verified by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss. While supporting the so-called Stennis compromise, Richardson said, he objected to Nixon's view that Cox should be "instructed" not to pursue other tapes and documents.

Haig relayed the attorney general's objection to the President, but told Richardson that night that he was to order Cox to accept the compromise.

Wounded man goes unnoticed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A man who staggered into a Miami Beach bar screaming for help after he was shot by a holdup man was ejected for being noisy, police say.

John Harrington, 49, blood streaming from his chest, then panhandled 30 cents and caught a bus which took him three miles across Biscayne Bay to neighboring Miami, investigators said.

He sat unnoticed for half an hour on a bench in front of a Miami department store before a passerby noticed his plight and called police.

Alaska pipeline may not function until mid-1978

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — By current estimates it may be mid-1978 before the trans Alaska pipeline begins feeding oil to an energy-hungry country.

Nobody expected the pipeline which won congressional approval last week to bring an immediate end to the energy crisis. But oil companies which had previously said it would take three years to build the multi-billion dollar project now say it will take closer to four years.

The pipeline will stretch 789 miles south from the oil rich North Slope fields to the icefree port of Valdez where tankers ferry oil to the 48 contiguous states.

To do the job, the seven oil firms building the pipeline say they need 13,000 workers and up to $5 billion.

Some officials say a reasonable estimate of construction time is 36 to 42 months, with another four to six months to get the line humming with North Slope crude.

Reasons for the tentative extension are intricate.

Charles Spahr, board chairman of Standard Oil Co. of Ohio, told the Alaska Legislature last month that the planned daily production of 600,000 barrels during pipeline warmup would be doubled "almost immediately."

That would mean a total of eight pumping stations to move the oil to tankers in the Gulf of Alaska instead of the three envisioned originally.

A dozen stations will be needed when the pipeline reaches a capacity of 2 million barrels daily. President Nixon has said the Alaska pipline's eventual ouput will equal 8½ per cent of current petroleum use in the country.

Environmental stipulations have forced about half the pipeline to be built above ground. That method is more costly and time-consuming than burying it, but is considered safer in icy soil.

When oil was discovered on the North Slope in 1968, cost estimates for the pipeline project were $900 million. Cost is now placed between $4 billion and $5 billion, making it the most expensive private construction project ever.

Three mountain ranges and 70 rivers have to be spanned. Workers will avoid river crossings when fish are spawning and the pipeline will be buried below river bottoms except for the Yukon, where a 2,400-foot bridge is planned.

The pipeline also will have to be elevated over earthquake zones, in some areas on pilings 10-feet high. Engineers plan to use a special zig-sag design to enable the half-inch thick steel pipe to absorb shocks up to 8.5 on the Richter Scale. The 1964 Good Friday quake, which caused extensive property damage, measured 8.4.

The entire line will be wrapped in four inches of plastic insulation to keep the oil, flowing at 145 degrees farenheit, from congealing. It will also prevent the heat from thawing the ground.

Most work on the pipeline will run from March to mid-November. Temperatures plunging to 60 degrees below zero will preclude most activity at other times.

Taste buds are limited to one or two functions — that is, some signal taste of sourness, sweetness, salty or bitter flavors. They are so sensitive that if a person gave full attention to them, he could easily distinguish the year in which a wine was made, or the reef on which oysters are grown. Legend proclaims a few gourmets claimed the ability to nibble the leg of a partridge and determine whether or not the bird customarily used that leg in roosting!

Through an exclusive patented process, the water refiner sorts and removes the invisible problem causing solids and pollutants found in today's tap water. And softens it too!

Your tap water, although clear to the eye, contains hidden solids, chlorine and other chemicals which cause odors in drinking water, coffee and other beverages, makes food colorless and unappetizing. With a water refiner these problems vanish. It helps make your water bearing appliances work the way they should. It does so much more — you could call it your "invisible Maid". And it saves you money too! Call Braswell.

What's the law?

The case of the protested giveaway

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Homer, 83 years of age, had no regard for money. While he was pleasant, cheerful and a sharp old man, if money talked, he didn't listen. In fact, he signed a contract to sell a piece of property for $25,000 when he knew it was worth at least four times that amount.

As it turned out, however, Homer's disdain for money wasn't a family characteristic. Upon learning what Homer had done, immediate members of his family hurriedly raced to court to have the contract of sale declared invalid on the grounds that aged Homer didn't have the mental capacity to make the deal.

"The poor old guy's been going backward as he's been advancing in years," the relatives told the judge. "Obviously, he didn't know what he was doing when he agreed to sell the property for only a fraction of its worth. Only a man who has lost his marbles would agree to do that!"

"That's not so," protested Homer in defense of his action. "While the land may be worth more, all I want is what I agreed to sell it for. Lots of money causes trouble and I have no use for either. As far as I'm concerned, the price is right."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold an old man incompetent for agreeing to sell property for far less than its worth?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that generosity in disposing of one's property does not, in and of itself, make a person incompetent. In this case, observed the judge, Homer was alert and attentive and, while his selling price might have seemed unrealistic to others, it was consistent with his not unrealistic philosophy of seeking and obtaining only so much money as a person needs.

Cason critical of special session

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate president pro tem, Sen. William J. Cason, said Wednesday Gov. Christopher S. Bond's call for a special session Dec. 3 will have a "bad and negative effect on the regular session."

The Clinton Democrat, chief foe on reorganization, said the legislature would respond and try to pass a reorganization bill.

"We will endeavor to do the very best possible job that we can under the extremely difficult circumstances the governor throws us into by calling a special session at this time," Cason said.

"I had asked him to call a special session in October, because then it would have lasted 60 days and we could certainly have had it over before the regular session starts.

"In calling one today, he enmeshes the special session and overlaps it with the regular session."

Automatic transmissions were installed in 90.5 per cent of all U.S. 1972 model cars; 68.5 per cent of the cars had air conditioners. Environmental officials have revealed the air conditioning increases gasoline consumption by about 10-20 per cent depending on the temperature and driving speed, The World Almanac says.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Nonsmoker begs for courtesy

Dr. Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Can I say something about us nonsmokers, and how bad it is for us with lung trouble, and how smokers hurt those who don't smoke? It was my first plane trip and we went to California. I did fine and enjoyed our granddaughter's wedding, but couldn't stay for fear the smog there would cause trouble. In fact, all the time we stayed for two weeks there was no smog where we were. In many stores they have no smoking signs. Coming back by jet I had a bad spell, but medicine and help was there.

We stopped in Dallas to wait for the plane to go to Texarkana, Arkansas. All was fine until we were airborne, then came the bombing of smokers so bad that I had to use the oxygen to help me breathe, but seeing me struggle to breathe, a man across said, "Can I help you," as he blew a cloud of smoke into my face which almost made me die. To make the story short, I had to spend two weeks in the hospital after the trip in the airplane. I was under oxygen for 12 hours so my lungs could breathe on their own. I have cancer all over and my lungs are now getting bad. Why couldn't I have enjoyed my first and maybe my last trip? Tell this to the people who smoke in the planes, please.

Dear Reader — Your point is well taken. Even dividing the planes into smoking and no smoking sections doesn't eliminate the real hazard that individuals with medical problems have during air travel. In fact, if you're in the row just in front of the smoking section the smoke from the seats behind you will drift up directly to your area.

I just can't believe that people who smoke appreciate how they are infringing on other people's rights, and even their health. Your case is a good example. There are a number of people who travel by air who have medical problems, such as asthma or severe allergies, who simply cannot tolerate tobacco smoke. One individual's freedom should stop where the other person's begins. The right to breathe clean air during public transportation is surely where the next person's freedom begins.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have a bone out of place in the upper part of my back. I've had this for over a year, and it never gave me very much trouble before. One time I stretched with my arm over my head and I got a sharp pain in my chest that went up to my ear. I felt dizzy, weak, and nauseated, and short of breath. I'm only 18 and I've just described a heart attack. I'm 5'6" tall and I weigh 126. Could this have been caused by the bone being out of place?

Dear Reader — I hate to disillusion you, but you have not "just described a heart attack." You have described a set of non-specific symptoms, all in the ball park of an impending faint. Causes for fainting are innumerable. This includes overbreathing, pain, and even psychic influences.

Heart attacks are not very often associated with sharp pains. These are more often musculo-skeletal. You may indeed have a cramped muscle which can cause pain referred to other parts of the body. Pain in the back or muscles along the spine can cause pain in the front of the chest.

If you continue to have symptoms, let a doctor decide what the diagnosis is, but I would like to reassure you that your symptoms are not those of a heart attack.

Refund seekers must have dedication

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — When Harry Heller went shopping recently, he bought $10.23 worth of food, but ended up paying only $2.92. His secret? He belongs to a growing army of shoppers who call themselves refunders.

The difference between a refunder and an ordinary coupon-clipper is dedication. Refunders must mail hundreds of letters a year for refunds and spend hours filling out forms.

The idea behind refunding is that hundreds of companies are ready to pay hard cash to have someone try their products. On everything from hot dogs to detergents there is a chance to make money.

According to estimates from companies and consumers, there are some 10,000 ardent refunders throughout the country. They comb newspapers and magazines seeking refund coupons and become avid readers of boxes and bags hoping to find firms offering money back in exchange for box tops or labels.

Here is how it works: A refunder gets a coupon allowing him 10 cents off on an 89-cent package of rolls. Then he waits until the company also offers a money refund offer, say 50 cents. The refunder uses his 10-cent coupon and pays 79 cents for the rolls, then mails in his refund form and ends up paying just 29 cents.

Of course, for refunders there are also some drawbacks. Some of the most ardent of this new breed of consumers end up eating hot dogs and pancakes.

Trevor Howard (left) and Martin Sheen respectively portray an aging abbot plagued by doubts of faith and a young social activist priest whose faith has given way to reason alone, in "Catholics," the "CBS Playhouse 90" production of Brian Moore's acclaimed novel, to be broadcast Thursday, Nov. 29 (9:00- 10:30 PM, EST) on the CBS Television Network.

BRIAN MOORE'S "CATHOLICS" TO BE BROADCAST AS THE FIRST "CBS PLAYHOUSE 90" OF THE SEASON THURSDAY, NOV. 29

"Catholics," a television adaptation of Brian Moore's critically acclaimed short novel of the same title, will be presented as the season's first "CBS Playhouse 90" Thursday, Nov. 29 *8- 9:30 p.m. CST) on the CBS Television Network. Trevor Howard, Martin Sheen and Cyril Cusack star.

Sponsors for the broadcast are Connecticut General Life Insurance Company, represented by Cunningham & Walsh Inc., and Mobil Oil Corporation, represented by Doyle Dane Bernbach Inc. The broadcast will preempt "The CBS Thursday Night Movies" on the Network on this date.

The special, under the supervision of Lewis Freedman, Executive Producer, Dramatic Programs, for the Network, was filmed last spring on location in Ireland. It is the first production for television by award-winning motion- picture producer Sidney Glazier. The special was produced by Barry Levinson and directed by Jack Gold.

The drama focuses on the conflict between an aging, conservative abbot and a young, progressive priest over the abbot's observance of the Mass. Within this framework– a dispute over the celebration of the Mass in Latin instead of English– the drama touches upon the personal conflict of faith between the aging, doubt-plagued abbot and the young social- activist American priest from Rome.

Howard portrays the abbot, Sheen plays the young American, and Cusack is a monk who tries to hold fast to the old order. The cast is composed of such leading Irish and British actors as Andrew Keir, Michael Gambon, Leon Vitale, Godfrey Quigley, Tom Jordan, Patrick Long, John Kelly, Richard Oliver, Gilbert McIntyre, Derry Power, Seamus Healy, John Franklyn, Cecil Sheridan, Laim Burk, Frank Howard, Conor Evans and John Pine, many of them members of Dublin's famed Abbey Players and all of them portraying monks.

The production group includes cinematographer Gerry Fisher of "The Bridge on the River Kwai" and "The Go- Between" fame, film editor Anne Coates, set designer John Clark and assistant director Michael Gowan.

'TODAY'

Mondays-Fridays, NBC Television Network
(In Color, 6-8 a.m.)

Timeliness is the keynote for the NBC Television Network's award- winning "Today," network television's longest- running weekday program. It has been on the air since Jan. 14, 1952.

"We've never changed the basic format," declares Executive Producer Stuart Schulberg, "but we've updated the program to keep pace with current, and often controversial, issues. In other words, we are truly 'today', not 'yesterday' of 'the day before that'."

Among Mr. Shulberg's innovations have been week-long visits to Romania, Japan, Canada and Great Britain; domestic originations from Chicago, Nashville, Detroit and Miami; a weekly segment on the Midwest scene, originating in Chicago; and analytical pieces by NBC correspondents.

No other program on the air offers as broad a scope and as great a turnover of material as "Today," which is produced by NBC News. It provides news, weather reports, topical discussions, exhibitions, demonstrations and reviews. The program has won many awards, including three Emmys (1968, 1970, 1971).

Frank McGee has been host of "Today" since October, 1971. His predecessors have been Dave Garroway, John Chancellor and Hugh Downs. Barbare Walters and Gene Shalit are featured and Frank Blair reports the news.

Stamps

Yachting races have proved exciting to spectators and participants alike for many years. When such events are depicted on stamps, they ofttimes seem to lend added fun and excitement to the hobby of stamp collecting.

The latest set of stamps from Grenada reveals the beauty of boats plying the seas in competition in that area. It honors the Carriacou Regatta.

The Carriacou Regatta is featured on seven new stamps. The ½ cent shows racing-class yachts; 1 cent, cruising-class yacht; 2 cent, small open-decked sloop; 35 cent, a large decked sloop, "The Mermaid"; 50 cent, St. George's Harbor; 75 cent, map of Carriacou; $1, boat building in Carriacou. A souvenir sheet was also issued.

Carriacou is the largest of the chain of islands known as the Grenadines in the Caribbean and is rich in French and British history. As for its beautiful scenery, Grenada is noted for the colorful stamps it produces — and this set is typical of previous issues.

The 1974 edition of the Minkus World Wide Catalog will be issued not just in two volumes, but in two stages. Next month one volume will be released at $14.50 and next spring Volume II, at the same price, will be on the market.

Volume I, covering U.S. and possessions, the British Commonwealth and Ireland, United Nations, Latin America, Africa and Asia, has more than 2,000 pages. Volume II, including Europe and its colonies, possessions and related territories, was produced with difficulties because of the uncertain monetary situation abroad. That is the reason for the late date of issuance.

As usual, both catalogs will be available at your local dealer or stamp department.

Mideast boundary debate continues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli and Egyptian envoys met for two hours today at a desert highway checkpoint to discuss troop withdrawals from the Suez war front. They agreed to meet again Saturday.

U.N. sources in Cairo said the Saturday meeting would deal once again with the crucial issue of a cease-fire boundary acceptable to both sides. Negotiators had dealt with the same problem at a session Thanksgiving Day.

Radio Israel said Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv and Egypt's Lt. Gen. Mohamed Gamasy resumed talks for the sixth time in a U.N. conference tent on the Cairo-Suez road, the tip of the Israeli front 60 miles from the Egyptian capital.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan warned that the Middle East war had not ended but was just beginning. In a speech before the Israeli Bar Association he urged fellow Israelis to have steady nerves in the event of new hostilities.

He said the Soviet Union had resupplied Syria and Egypt with weapons since the October fighting. "We are facing not the end of the war, but the beginning with the Syrians and the Egyptians, and I don't know about the other fronts," he declared.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban returned from a visit to the United States and told newsmen the Israeli government had not yet decided whether it could attend a Mideast peace conference in December.

Eban said he had pointed out to U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and other officials that the government could not make significant commitments for the future until after the Israeli elections set for Dec.31.

Israeli newspapers, summing up Thursday's meeting on the Cairo road, said the decision to continue daily talks signaled progress in the discussion of a principal issue: how to separate the opposing forces.

The key stumbling block in the talks continued to be disagreement over the drawing of a new cease-fire line as stipulated in the six-point accord worked out earlier this month during a visit to the Middle East by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Egypt claimed the Israelis made significant advancements after the first U.N. imposed cease-fire on Oct. 22 and has demanded that the Israeli forces return to where they were on that date.

But Israel said the positioning of the two armies on Oct. 22 cannot now be determined and has suggested the opposing forces return to their respective sides of the Suez Canal with a six-mile demilitarized zone on both banks.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Shy sell many of their pecans from a stand beside their home in New Madrid. The Shys (top photo) purchased the property in 1937. Shy sells cracked pecans (left photo), which are cracked when run through a machine. The Shys have five acres of pecans in town (bottom photo). The pecans were planted by Mrs. Shy's father, Judge Lee Phillips, 45 years ago. They have another 153 acres of pecan trees just outside New Madrid.

Rain storm causes power failure here

A heavy rain storm throughout the Bootheel last night and early today was also the cause of a power failure in a large area of Sikeston this morning.

Lightning struck a power transformer east of Missouri Delta Community Hospital about 6 a.m. today, knocking out power to a large area of Sikeston, according to Dick Inman, director of municipal utilities. Inman said the power was restored by 7 a.m.

The power plant in Sikeston recorded 2.53 inches of rain from 7 p.m. Thursday night until about 11 a.m. today. By 7 a.m. today, 1.77 inches of that total had fallen, causing flooded streets thoughout much of Sikeston.

Flooded streets were also reported in East Prairie and New Madrid.

The heaviest rainfall in the area seems to have occurred at East Prairie where KYMO reported 2.72 inches of rain since its beginning Thursday night until 9 a.m. today. The station reported that the rain guage overflowed before it was checked at 6:50 a.m. at which point it held approximately 2.22 inches.

From 6 p.m. Thursday night until 10:30 a.m. today, 2.1 inches of rain were reported at Malden.

One and one half inches of rain were recorded by KMIS in Portageville, while the New Madrid power plant recorded 1.94 inches by 6 a.m. today.

The weather service reported heavy rains in these areas, during the night and continuing today.

The forecast calls for several periods of showers and thunderstorms likely through Saturday with an 80 per cent chance of precipitation this afternoon and tonight and a 60 per cent chance for Saturday.

Little, if any, precipitation is expected Sunday through Tuesday.

Fire destroys warehouse

CHARLESTON — Lightning apparently caused the fire which destroyed a cotton warehouse owned by Rolwing and Moxley Gin Co. this morning.

Firemen were called at 6:41 a.m. to the warehouse, located on Mill Street, which contained two full bales, two remnant bales of cotton, a few bags of rye seed and fertilizer.

The fire was brought under control about 10 a.m. However, the building was too heavily damaged to salvage and was allowed to burn to the ground.

No damage estimate was available.

3 hurt in Sikeston accident

Three persons were injured at 11 p.m. Thursday in a two- car accident at the intersection of East Malone Avenue and South Ingram Road.

Treated and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital were Kenneth Wayne Williams, 18, of Pleasant Valley, Iowa, who received cuts and bruises of the face and jaw, and Cathy Marie Williams, 17, of Sikeston and Patricia Ann Johnson, 16, of Canalou, who both received neck injuries.

Police said both cars were headed west on the inside lane, when Miss Johnson stopped to make a left turn onto South Ingram. The car driven by Kenneth Williams failed to stop and struck the rear of the Johnson car, according to police.

Williams was arrested for careless and imprudent driving.

Stolen tools are recovered

Police today said they have recovered $150 worth of hand tools stolen last Saturday from Roy Alberson, 411 Broadway.

The tools were found Wednesday afternoon in a shed behind a vacant house at 721 Allen Boulevard by an employe of the real estate agency handling the sale of the house.

The tools were taken from the cab of Alberson's truck while it was parked at Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian Church, a short distance from where the tools were recovered.

3 sentenced to year in jail

BENTON — Janie Messmer received a one- year jail sentence on each of two charges Wednesday in Circuit Court with the sentences to run concurrently. She was charged with writing a $20 bad check on Aug. 8 to Illmo Variety Store and a $65 bad check Aug. 15 to Shorty's tavern.

After pleading guilty to charges of writing a $58.20 bad check on July 30 to Shy's Supermarket of Chaffee, Gerald Simpson was sentenced to one year in the county jail.

Robert Chance Wallace of Sikeston was sentenced to one year in the county jail on a charge of writing a $97.20 bad check to the Learue and McKinnie store.

Abandoned car burns

Arson is the suspected cause of a fire that destroyed this late model automobile which was abandoned Thursday at the Highway 77 interchange on Interstate 55 near Benton. According to highway patrol Sgt. Alvin E. "Bud" Mills, the car was observed parked on the shoulder of I- 55 about three hours before the fire was discovered. At that time, there was no sign of fire and a license plate was on the back of the car. When the fire was discovered, the plate had been removed and the location and intensity of the blaze indicated that a highly flammable substance had been poured over the front floor board area and set afire. Efforts are under way to determine the identify of the car's owner.

It looks like this will be another bad year for pecans in New Madrid County.

The largest grower in the Bootheel, Arthur Shy of New Madrid, says he is expecting only about a quarter of his normal crop. In the past eight years, he said only two have been good ones.

Shy has 158 acres of Stuart paper shell and native pecans.

Joe Haubold of Marston who has 43 trees on three acres says he too is expecting only a quarter crop. This is the third straight year of poor crops, he says.

The trees on the J. D. Warner property at Marston are refusing to produce at all.

"If we got every one (of the nuts), we wouldn't have five pounds," says Mrs. Warner.

They have 25-28 trees of the Mayhan and Stuart paper shell varieties.

Last year they had a bumper crop, Mrs. Warner said, but this year most of the trees have no nuts on them at all. Shy blames the poor crops on chemical spraying of nearby cotton and soybean fields. The defoliation chemicals used are blowing into his trees and causing damage in the groves, he said.

Haubold says his grove is surrounded by soybean fields, but there hasn't been

6 injured in 4 SeMo accidents

Six persons were injured in four area traffic accidents Wednesday and Thanksgiving Day, accoiding to the highway patrol.

John Dirickson, 55, of Memphis, Tenn., received six broken ribs in an accident at 6:20 a.m. Wednesday one mile south of the Highway 84 interchange on Interstate 55 near Hayti when his tractor- trailer truck ran off the road and overturned down an embankment.

Dirickson was taken to Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis.

Two Doniphan youths were slightly injured at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday on a gravel road 12 miles north of Doniphan when an eastbound car driven by Charles L. Ezzell, 18, ran off the road and struck a tree.

Ezzell and a passenger, Richard Allen Reynolds, 19, received minor injuries and were taken to Ripley County Memorial Hospital in Doniphan.

An accident at 10:30 a.m. Thursday on Highway 84 three miles east of Kennett resulted in two injuries.

The accident occurred when a car driven by George C. Terrett, 78, of Hayti slammed into the back of a pickup truck parked on the road. James Edward Smallman, 44, of Kennett, who had been driving the pickup, was out of the truck flagging traffic for a combine that was crossing a bridge.

Terrett and a passenger in the Smallman truck, Jimmy Youmans, 7, of Kennett received minor injuries. The patrol did not report where they received treatment.

Rufus A. Parker, 40, of St. Louis was injured at 4:05 p.m. Thursday on Highway 67 at Greenville when he attempted to pass a car driven by Raymond E. Tanner, 27, of Wardell while driving at a high rate of speed. To avoid an oncoming vehicle, Parker swerved his car back to the right and attempted to pass the Tanner car on the right and struck it from behind.

Parker was treated for minor injuries and released from Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks you always hear the day after Thanksgiving:

"Well, the house looks a mess — but it was worth it."

"It certainly was. That was the nicest Thanksgiving dinner we ever had."

"You've been saying that for over 20 years now, John."

"Well, it has been true for over 20 years, Elizabeth. Men in my family are known for their ability to pick girls who get prettier and cook better every year."

"How many of us were there, did you say?"

"Eighteen altogether. That sounds like a lot. But in the old days, my grandfather once told me, we used to have 40 to 50 at a family reunion."

"In those days, John, your family didn't just breed like rabbits. They spawned like fish. Do you ever regret that we only had two children?"

"No, indeed. Considering the cost of a college education today, I'm eternally grateful for your forbearance in that respect. Anyway, two is a nice number — better than one and far better than none. You know, I've always thought that married people who don't have any children tend to get a little selfish as they get older."

"Many of them do, John. But, in any case, they all get lonelier."

"You know, Elizabeth, you don't have to go on cooking a big Thanksgiving dinner every year. I'd be glad to take you out and spare you all that work."

"I don't mind the work, John. A mother can fix a thousand meals for her family during the year, and nobody notices them. But if her turkey turns out well on Thanksgiving, everybody praises her as if she had passed a miracle. Besides, I'd rather spend Thanksgiving at home. It's my favorite holiday of all."

"Why is that, Elizabeth?"

"Well, the Fourth of July is too noisy, Easter is for little children and for showing off new clothes, and at Christmas everybody expects to get something for nothing — something they may want but don't really need. But to me Thanksgiving has a warmer and more truly religious feeling. People are simply grateful to God for what they have — and the fact that they can share it together."

SHIFT GEARS ON MOBILE HOMES

The Missouri State Highway Commission will have the opportunity to right its own wrong at its November meeting by rescinding the decision allowing 14- foot- wide mobile homes to be transported on state highways.

It should not hesitate to take this corrective action in the best interests of all users of Missouri highways. It was a disservice to Missourians to grant the road- use privilege to a special interest group in the first place. Monster- sized 14 - foot- wide trailers have no business on 12- foot- wide highways. In some parts of the state, the roadways are only 11 feet wide, creating an even greater highway hazard.

The Highway Commission's handling of the mobile homes matter has been highly questionable. Despite the fact that the General Assembly turned down the request to permit the excessively wide trailers on state roads — a clear indication that the public didn't want the monsters on the highways — the commission gave the mobile home industry the green light.

Now the commission has a chance to erase the question mark about its own conduct as well as act in the public interest. It should be obvious to the commissioners what they should do now: Shift gears and reverse the ill-considered decision.

Most Americans are not confused about what inflation is doing to their savings and salaries, but our attention to this problem is too often diverted by political double-talk, Watergate investigations, and now the Middle East war, along with the energy crisis.

How serious is inflation? Imagine, if you will, receiving a letter from the President of your local bank reading as follows:

"Dear Depositor:

"Due to circumstances beyond our control, we have lost seven- and - one - half per cent of your money this year. We see no hope of recovering this money and, in fact, next year we will be fortunate if we do not lose more. The long-term outlook isn't much better. Your deposit will continue to shrink.

"To help you with your future planning, I would like to point out what will happen to a $100 deposit placed with us. In one year, it will be listed on our books as $92.50; in two years, $85.60; in five years, it will be worth $67.70 and in ten years, $45.90. Sorry."

You would be surprised and shocked to receive such a letter from any bank. Yet the illustration is not far - fetched because the purchasing power of your savings, at the current rate of inflation, would decline at the pace outlined above. Pensions, annuities, long- term bonds and many other fixed investments would suffer the same erosion. Interest paid, of course, reduces the impact of inflation to some degree, but the interest you receive only camouflages the extent of the damage to your nestegg.

Now please don't misunderstand, we believe firmly in all savings plans, but we can no longer allow the spenders in Congress as well as in state and local governments to continue on their road of deficit spending and inflation. These public officials, elected and appointed, deserve to be kicked out of office if they don't stop inflation which is affecting everyone in this nation. Licking inflation comes first, so let's quit kidding ourselves.

MULTINATIONALS CREATE DOMESTIC JOBS

There is considerable public misunderstanding about the impact multinational businesses have on the employment of U. S. workers.

Recent government and university studies show that many American firms with overseas plants increase their domestic employment faster than firms with no foreign operations. This is because companies with overseas plants are able to increase their exports and compete more effectively with foreign companies than strictly domestic firms.

These same studies estimate that close to a million new jobs have been created in the United States directly as a result of American investments outside the U. S. during the past ten years.

Another benefit from foreign investments by U. S. firms is to keep American products competitive in world markets. They also (believe it or not) provide vital funds for investment in the U. S. A recent study of 83 companies with foreign operations found that about half of every after-tax dollar returned to the U. S. is invested in new plants and equipment here at home.

Since it takes an average of more than $25,000 of investment to provide one job in industry, these investment dollars are enough to create more than 200,000 jobs in our country.

Still another benefit of multinational operation is that it promotes continued world peace. War is less likely between nations engaged in mutually beneficial trade.

The Burke- Hartke bill, proposed in Congress, would wipe-out this job- making potential by placing severe restrictions on the operations of American companies seeking to compete on a world- wide basis.

In this column we'll begin to explore the Harrison Narcotic Act of 1914. The foundation for this controversial act was laid in the late 1890's when the United States assumed the duties of governing the Philippine Islands following the Spanish-American war. At that time the U. S. also inherited the system for licensing narcotic addicts and supplying them with opium legally. This system was originally created and maintained under the previous Spanish rule. Some Americans were very distressed by this system which they felt encouraged immoral drug behavior.

President Theodore Roosevelt at the urging of the Episcopal Bishop of the Philippine Islands called for an international opium conference which was held in Shanghai in 1909. Following this meeting a Second Conference took place at The Hague in 1911, from which came the first international opium agreement, The Hague Convention of 1912. This agreement was aimed primarily at solving the opium problems in the Far East, especially China.

These conventions served a dual purpose; dealing with the immediate problem of the opiate maintenance system of the Philippines, and giving the United States a basis for negotiating and having some effect on the historical opium problems of the Far East which primarily involved England and China. We will continue to look at the controversial Harrison Narcotic Act of 1914 in the next History of Drugs column.

SENATE PASSES CURB ON HANDGUNS

The Senate voted 68-25 Aug. 9 to ban the manufacture and sale of low cost handguns.

Under the bill, sponsored by Sen. Birch Bayh (member, Council on Foreign Relations), the manufacture and sale of most short- barreled guns, often referred to as "Saturday Night Specials" would be outlawed.

Bayh's bill would not ban presently- owned short- barrel pistols.

Pro-gun forces succeeded Aug. 8 in writing into the bill an amendment repealing controls over the sale of .22 - caliber rimfirm ammunition which could be used in both sporting rifles and low - cost handguns. The amendment was attached to Bayh's bill by a 71-21 vote.

Earlier the Senate rejected efforts by Sens. Edward M. Kennedy (D, Mass.) and Philip A. Hart (D, Mich.) to ban possession of all handguns, to require registration of all guns and to license all gun owners.

The Kennedy amendment, which would have required registration of all guns and licensing of all gun owners, was defeated by a 78-11 vote Aug. 7.

Hart's measure, which would have outlawed the possession of all privately owned handguns within a year, was rejected 83-7 the same day.

The bill is now being considered in the House of Representatives by Judiciary Subcommittee No. 5.

WHY MAKE IT TOO EASY?

Congress is now in the process of considering ways to make it easier for everyone to cast their ballot at election time. One proposal includes a plan to register by postcard which would eliminate the problem of having to make a special effort to register as an eligible voter. It is fine to encourage people to vote, up to a point. But, considering the complexities of the issues on local, state and national ballots today, it is more important than ever before that whoever votes also be informed.

Dragooning disinterested and uninformed people, whether they be 18 years of age or 98, into the polling places to mark their ballots simply to get the percentages up is a pretty sure way to have a lot of incompetent candidates elected and unworkable legislation passed. We have enough problems with this already. Maybe we should make it tougher to vote, rather than easier. After all, shaping the policies of government is a serious business.

JOHN F. KENNEDY

November 22, 1973, the tenth anniversary of the assassination of our popular and able young President John F. Kennedy, should be a time of national unity. Having known his father, Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, personally and being aware of the constructive and patriotic stature of Ambassador Kennedy and his family, I contributed financially to the John F. Kennedy campaign in 1960 and publically announced my support for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

President Kennedy after the election expressed to me his personal appreciation for my support. It was my expectation that the John F. Kennedy administration would prove to be one of our more constructive Presidencies. The tragic and demoralizing assassination of our popular young President, by a communist, plunged this nation into a period of turmois and disunity from which we have not yet emerged.

The fact that President Kennedy was shot and killed by an avowed communist is a matter which many of the left-leaning commentators and members of the communications media have tried to gloss over for this entire decade and, even now, a highly fictionalized movie is being shown which purports to lay the assassination on right-siders, not on the actual communist conspirators.

This tenth anniversary of the loss of President Kennedy should be a time for all citizens of this Republic USA once again to vow support for our national unity and our determination to overcome in a constructive manner our current problems such as energy, national security and presidential disfavor and once again become determined that communism shall not prevail against us. Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON AND LES WHITTEN SAYS:

Loeb's Star Tells His Tales

WASHINGTON-- Every few months, the nation's most erratic publisher, William Loeb, jolts the country with some fantastic story in his Manchester (N. H.) Union-Leader. As often as not, the revelation is the work of his rambunctious star reporter, Arthur Egan.

Last week, Egan's "Mission: Impossible" Watergate stories put him behind closed doors at the Senate Watergate committee for one of its most colorful sessions.

Dumbfounded committee sleuths are still trying to weed the fancy from the fact in Egan's astonishing secret statement, all of it given under oath and with a straight face.

What brought him to the committee was his claim that Teamster vice presidents and other Teamster bigwigs were ordered to kick in $1,000 each toward a $175,000 war chest for President Nixon's 1972 campaign. Las Vegas casinos with Teamsters' loans came up with another $400,000, he said.

HOFFA STORY

As it turns out, the alleged custodian of the war chest is suing Egan and his paper, and has already caught Egan in a glaring departure from the truth. However, Newsweek, even as we were writing this story, quoted former Teamsters chief James Hoffa telling of a $60,000 to $175,000 war chest collected from the union's leaders at $1,000 a clip.

The committee also heard a sizzling tale of how the then Attorney General John Mitchell, irked at Egan's criticism of the Justice Department, was "going to put some agents on me and wattle me silly." "Wattles" are rods of woven wood.

The "wattling," Egan said under oath, was ordered by Mitchell personally "to shut me up" about stories demanding Hoffa's release from prison. Mitchell, said Egan, used misleading old records to try to get Egan indicted on gun charges. "Geez, right away I am John Dillinger," Egan marveled.

In view of the Nixon Administration's hassling of the press via wiretaps, arrests and tax audits, Egan's charge sounded plausible. Besides, Egan claimed that both the then U. S. attorney for New Hampshire, David Brock, and the state's attorney general, Warren Rudman, would back him up. We contacted both Brock, who said the yarn was "completely erroneous," and Rudman, who snorted it was "horse ----."

HOOVER 'MURDERED'

Egan's credibility dropped even further when he testified that the late J. Edgar Hoover was "murdered." As his questioners gasped, he went on, "Everyone on hearing that says I am nuts, but somebody in the Watergate thing murdered...J Edgar Hoover."

When his interrogators recovered enough to query him, he admitted his statement was "just my own hunch." All available evidence indicates it is a false hunch.

Yet, as credibility of the Union- Leader's star seemed ready to dim, he told how federal pardon and parole officials confided to him that Hoffa's prison commutation papers left their offices with no restrictions on Hoffa's future Teamsters activities.

The final papers banned Hoffa from Teamsters activities until 1980. If Egan is right, the White House quietly skewered Hoffa even as it publicly courted him. Egan's commutation story was backed forcefully by the Union-Leader's lawyer, Ralph Sullivan, who told the committee he heard the pardon and parole official's words. The parole official, however, told us the story was not true.

OTHER 'LEADS'

The committee is still checking these other wild leads from Egan:

-- That a famous singer movie- star coughed up 40 tickets to her performance after a union lawyer threatened "either I get (the tickets) or you don't open." The singer and union lawyer vehemently deny it.

-- That Hoffa's son and Egan were bugged at the Watergate, even as the Democrats were. The accused bugger convincingly denies it.

-- Egan denied that he once suggested a reporter on Loeb's paper wrote one of the letters quoting Sen. Edmund Muskie in an alleged racial slur on "Canucks." But Egan, according to other statements to the committee, has taken two different positions on his colleague's suspected letter-writing.

"Dirty tricks," he philosophized under oath, "is a new phrase that has been coined, but it is not new to political campaigns. Hell, we have seen this in the newspaper profession right along.

"If you want to get a candidate defeated, just start a little whispering campaign. Start a rumor. I have done it just to sit back and see reactions....Is this a dirty-trick? I don't think so."

FOOTNOTE: In our talks with Egan, he stuck to the story he told the committee. His "wattling" by the Administration, he said, included questions on his tax returns for five consecutive years.

Homemade Atomic Bomb: Report Warns of Ease of Theft Of Fissionable Material for 'Crude' Nuclear Weapon

WASHINGTON--- It is the carefully studied opinion of some of this nation's most experienced official security investigators that protection of fissionable uranium and plutonium is so inadequate, inefficient and sloppy that the critical material could be stolen easily and turned into a "crude nuclear weapon" by anyone with sufficient expertise.

Such expertise and mechanisms necessary could be obtained by the organized crime families which have hundreds of millions of dollars available for bribery and terror. Or the material could be diverted, stolen or simply purchased from crooked guards, executives or employes by a small nation with money to spare and world terrorism in its dictatorial heart.

Warning of the potential danger of such theft and the ease with which it could be accomplished has just come from none other than U. S. Comptroller General Staats's crack agency, the General Accounting Office. The warning was given the Atomic Energy Commission where the security people agreed with the GAO's grim findings.

All this must be read against the backdrop of President Nixon's statement before the AP managing editors' gathering, that he hoped the U. S. would be self-sufficient in energy supply by 1980. Such self- sufficiency would depend heavily on nuclear power plants as well as Alaskan north slope pipeline oil, gas supplies, and coal.

For, by 1980, the AEC expects there will be some 2.2 million pounds of uranium and plutonium spread across the land in facilities of the government and private or commercial licensees and contractors.

Both the GAO and AEC agree that to make such a "crude" bomb would take only 13 pounds of plutonium or 37.4 pounds of uranium.

Right now there are about 95 licensees and contractors who have enough of the deadly material on hand for "one man" to steal. There are another 500 private agencies or firms (including universities) which have enough uranium or plutonium in store that could prove radioactively dangerous to any community if lost or stolen, but don't have enough supplies for weapon- making by a thief or conspirator.

Now, note this from the AEC itself:

"As long as significant quantities of nuclear materials are in active use by the government, by government contractors and by licensed commercial and other interests, there will be a distinct probability that some of those materials will be stolen, unexplainably or accidentally lost, diverted from authorized use or used or disposed of in unauthorized ways.

"The probability of such happenings is increased by the sheer volume of materials being processed and transferred, the number of licensees and contractors involved, and the technical difficulties of measuring quantities and verifying inventories."

Yet during a recent investigation GAO probers found such inadequate protection of this death-dealing fissionable material that one man could pick up "portable" portions and steal into the night past untrained guards and fences which could be almost huffed and puffed down.

At two nuclear material supply and working material facilities, the GAO reported its men found "weak physical barriers, ineffective alarm systems, ineffective guard patrols, a lack of automatic-detection devices, and a lack of a plan of action in the event of an SWM (material---VR) diversion (action/response plan)."

At one plant the GAO found supposedly well- trained guards who carried .38- caliber revolvers--- but were on the payroll as "watchmen" and weren't actually trained in the use of weapons.

This plant stored the fissionable materials in portable containers. In referring to the watchman system, which included checking the fence about once a month, the GAO said, "We believe that...(the) security system was significantly limited in its capability to prevent, detect, and immediately respond to possible SWM diversion or diversion attempts."

The GAO men also tested the fence around one nuclear material facility--- and wrenched it open "within one minute, and at this point the only impediment to entry was a small rivet which, in our opinion, could have been forced manually...sufficient flexibility to permit entry" into the fissionable material store room.

How could this nation of ours fall to such a dangerous, almost lethal, position? How could all this be overlooked at this moment of national energy and international confrontation crunches?

FHA office ready to receive business loan applications

Pre- applications for business and industrial loans in Scott and Mississippi counties may be filed with the Farmers Home Administration Office in Sikeston.

This announcement was made by FHA County Supervisor Bobby R. Hicks, who said provisions of the Rural Development Act will soon be operating in the Sikeston office.

Hicks said a letter of pre-application is the first step in seeking assistance under the new federal program of financing local business development. The proposal should explain in detail the type of industry or business, and the proposed market for goods or services.

"If the prospective business meets eligibility requirements," Hicks said, "the applicant will be requested to submit a formal application."

Applications from public bodies can be filed at the Farmers Home Administration county office, 106 E. Center Street, Sikeston.

Other eligible applicants -- individuals, partnerships, cooperatives, and corporations -- should submit applications to banks or other private lenders. Those whose loans are approved will receive loans from the private lenders, but guaranteed up to 90 per cent by Farmers Home Administration. Funds may be used for working capital, to purchase machinery and equipment, and to buy land, buildings and permanent fixtures.

Lane, Johnson hearings date set

CHARLESTON — Preliminary hearings for Ronnie Lane and Larry Johnson of East Prairie, charged with burglary and larceny, were scheduled for Nov. 29 by Magistrate T. J. Brown Jr. Wednesday. The two men are accused of the Nov. 1 break-in at the Melvin Guinn home near East Prairie and theft of a color television, stereo combination and speakers.

Dec. 6 was set as preliminary hearing date for George Reed of Charleston, charged with stealing more than $50. Reed, free on $1,000 bond, is accused of stealing a purse belonging to Pat Davis on Nov. 12 which contained $52.

James Cleaves of Charleston entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of common assault and Judge Brown set trial date for Dec. 6. Cleaves is accused of making an assault on Della Ware. He was released on his own recognizance.

Tony Peterson of Charleston pleaded innocent to a common assault charge and trial date was set for Dec. 6. Jeffery Haynes, also of Charleston, who was arrested along with Peterson, pleaded guilty to the same charge and was fined $10 plus costs. Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My mother used to say, "Habit is a cable. We weave a strand each day."

Attitudes can become habits. This is the point I want to make.

Unless the father builds up the dignity of the mother by whispering into the child's ear, "Go help your mother with those packages," or, "Open the door for your mother and speak to her with respect," something will be missing later.

The mother must build up the dignity of the father by telling the children what a thoughtful and worthwhile person he is. Making him look good in their eyes--- yes, even better than he is--- is part of the job of a loving mother.

It's amazing how this pays dividends. The children are more respectful of both parents, and the parents become more respectful of each other.

Today I see so many fathers who are regarded as cash registers, and mothers who are thought of as maids. A close look at the situation reveals that these two didn't do very much to help one another look good in the eyes of their children.--- The Bumble Bee

Dear Bee: Truer words were never spoken. Thank you for the wise counsel.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing to you about a problem that is common in every high school and it's been going on for years. I'm talking about young girls who get crushes on their male teachers.

How should a teacher handle love letters by day and phone calls to his home at night? Sometimes the girl even shows up at his home or apartment to "discuss a problem."

Often such a girl has no boyfriends, or she is emotionally disturbed. Male teachers have been transferred and even dismissed when it was learned that a female student had visited his apartment. In one instance that I know of, the teacher was completely innocent of any wrongdoing. The girl was trying to seduce him and he had been urging her to get counseling.

I'm a teacher who has just started in the profession and some of my girl students are very aggressive. I'd appreciate some advice.--- Not In The Curriculum

Dear N.: A male teacher who senses that a female student is becoming enamored of him should conduct himself as if he were a doctor and she a woman patient. Make it clear that there can be no social relationship. If she persists, restate the guidelines in plain language and behave in a formal, even chilly manner---- for her protection as well as your own.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 28 years old, married, and have an 8- year- old son. My problem is that I need to work to help my husband out, but I'm unable to hold a job for more than three months. I can't work where people aren't friendly. I am not the outgoing type and for this reason people think I'm "stuck up." Also I have only a seventh- grade education and am slow at typing and filing. I lost my last two jobs because I didn't turn in enough work.

Is something wrong with me? What can I do to help myself?--- Failure

Dear Friend: Try applying for a job where they have facilities to give aptitude tests to determine what type of work the applicants are best suited for. I have a hunch you'd be better at something other than an office job. Please consider it.

A no- nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers's booklet, "Marriage--- What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654, enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Children learn best by self-discovery

By SHAREN K. HUNT
Area Home Economist

Special foods and family get- togethers symbolize the holiday season. How about combining both for your youngster? Cooking activities can be fun for you and your child. Instead of shoving them out of the kitchen, involve them in food learning. All young children are interested in eating. They learn by doing and through sensory experiences.

One of the earliest ways of identifying is by color. Foods, especially fruits and vegetables, present all colors. Children learn green and yellow vegetables are good for them and that apples can be red, yellow or green.

Shape can be dealt with by noticing football shapes of lemons, long celery stalks and skinny green beans. Size is another way that children use to describe. A watermelon is probably the biggest food in the world to most children.

Guessing which is powdered milk or sugar can teach problem solving. After all, how can you tell unless you taste, and self- discovery is the best way.

After cooking countless meals, we often don't notice the feels of different foods. Some are slippery, lumpy, dry, wet, sticky. Children need many experiences in learning to develop their sense of touch and, at the same time, renew our own sense of appreciation. Kneading dough, shaping cookies or hamburger patties are sure- fire ways to involve children in manipulative experiences.

Listening to food is another way children learn. Hearing soup bubbling, water boiling, bacon frying, fresh fruits and vegetables crunch, or popcorn popping reinforces the meanings as well as expand their vocabulary.

Skills are also by-products of the food curriculum. Scrubbing, whether it's a tabletop or a potato, can be learned. Pouring skills are developed through food activities and give children a grown- up sense of independence and importance.

A difficult, but important, skill is spreading. They need lots of experience doing this, but bread tastes so much better if you put on your own butter and jelly.

Cracking nuts, paring carrots, shucking corn, cracking eggs, mixing and stirring are just a few of the confidence and skill building activities you can do in your kitchen.

Time and math concepts can be discussed when you need to bake cookies for 15 minutes or an egg for three or when you need to measure water into gelatin powder.

Simple science ideas like eggs changing form as they are beaten, and steam and ice are forms of water that take little time but are so important.

All of these values children get from cooking won't be, unless they actually do the work. They don't learn if they only get to stir once or twice and taste the final product.

There's an old Chinese proberb that is appropriate when it comes to providing learning experiences for children:

"I hear and I forget; I see and I remember; I do, and I understand."

Casually Yours!

You can usually tell if a headache is caused by a sinus infection, if you have a pain in the eyes and in the cheekbones.

It should be remembered that there are occasional sinus infections without headaches. You must not assume that there is no infection because there is no headache. Be sure to see your doctor.

Homemakers given tips on creativity

BELL CITY– "This Way to a Better Home" is the theme of a series of meetings being held for homemakers in the Bell City DAEOC Center. Mrs. Fredericka Plummer of Charleston, an area home economist, is the instructor for the series of five meetings. The last session will be held Dec. 7. The program will consist of slides of low- cost decorating ideas.

At the first session on Nov. 7, nine homemakers cleaned two occasional chairs with thick soap suds. They took home samples of a window cleaner and scouring powder that were mixed at the meeting to be tested. They also tried out a furniture polish on the wooden parts of the chairs during the meeting. It consisted of equal parts of turpentine, boiled linseed oil and white vinegar.

At the Nov. 9 session, 12 homemakers each made a dustless dust cloth and net ball. They watched demonstrations of how to patch wallboard and how to repair an electric plug. Some tried repairing a plug.

Six homemakers attended the Nov. 11 meeting. They mixed colors to use in making a plaque and sanded and put a sealer finish on the board for the plaque.

Attending the series on "This Way to a Better Home" have been Marie Daniel of Advance; Bea Carter, Rosa George, Flossie Gregory, Pearlean Gross, Anna Mae Jackson, Barbara Jackson, Lurine Jinkins, Mary Jordon, Marge Lemmons, Ethel Limbaugh, Vernetha Ray, Virginia Segers and Louise Wiley of Bell City; Joyce Coleman and Ola Mae Morris of Bloomfield; Lula Mae Rutledge of Parma; and Ceola Tate of Sikeston.

County Court to appeal land damage assessment

CHARLESTON — Commissioners H. V. Morrow of Bertrand and Ralph Adkisson and A. J. Drinkwater Jr. of Charleston, appointed Nov. 16 by Circuit Court Judge Marshall Craig to determine the amount of damages due to landowners of property adjoining the proposed airport site, filed a report Monday in the office of Circuit Clerk Ellis W. Howlett assessing the damages at $13,000.

Following the filing, the County Court met Tuesday afternoon and authorized Prosecuting Attorney W. Clifton Banta Jr. to appeal the assessed damages.

The commissioners were instructed to determine the fair market value of the property and to take into consideration the interference and inconvenience that may result to the operation of the land following construction of the airport.

The Mississippi County Court had filed the condemnation suit seeking to obtain clear zone easements to the property at the south end of the proposed runway from defendants Gladys Crumpecker, Floyd and Marilyn Stallings, Billie Marie and Larry Chapman, Martin Stalling, David Blanton, trustee, and Bernice M. Stewart.

The condemnation suit will prohibit the owners of the adjoining property from erecting, maintaining or allowing any building, structure or object to remain on the real estate and prohibits any growth other than normal farm crops. It does not take ownership of the property away from the defendants. Approximately 10 acres of land was involved in the suit.

With the securing of the easement, federal state and Ozarks Regional Commission funds can be released for the actual construction of the airport which is to be located approximately midway between East Prairie and Charleston on property purchased from Rolwing Bros. Farms.

McMullin Construction Co. of Sikeston was the only firm to submit a bid when bids were opened last month. The bid of $256,159.83 has been taken under advisement and is being checked by R. W. Booker and Associates of St. Louis, engineers for the project.

How do I love thee?
Let me count the ways —
I love thee though thee spits on my geraniums each time thee passes by them —
I love thee in spite of thy dirty laundry thee trails from room to room and leaves for me to pick up —
I love thee even though thee has to be told to go to bed not once, but twenty times before thee finally places thy head upon thy pillow —
I love thee even when thy nose curls up and thy mouth spouts indignities when called to the table and confronted with pot roast and carrots —
I love thee in spite of long shaggy hair, torn bluejeans and dirty fingernails —
I love thee even though thee seems to be deaf on occasion and must be brought to earth like a rabbit —
I love thee even if thy entire conversation deals only with snakes and fish and coons and deer —
I love thee when in good health, or when holding thy sick head over a basin —
I love thee while I wash, or clean, or cook, or entertain for thee —
I love thee although thee brings home extra animals or other nuisances for me to tend and care for —

Many holiday travelers didn't drive

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The fear of running out of gas prompted many holiday travelers to ride trains or buses rather then drive cars for Thanksgiving Day trips. And they probably didn't regret it.

Some cars coughed and sputtered to a standsill on freeways around the country as the fuel shortage became a reality for many drivers.

"We were getting two or three calls a minute this afternoon from motorists stranded without gas," spokesman Alex Parley of the Connecticut Automobile Association said Thursday night.

Many gas stations were reported closed, but whether for lack of fuel or because of the holiday could not be determined.

A spokesman for the American Automobile Association office in Columbus, Ohio, said 50 per cent of Thursday's calls were emergency appeals for gas. He said at 8 p.m. only one gas station in the area was open.

Simmeron charged 82 cents a gallon for regular and 86 cents a gallon for premium gasoline at his Shell station on Black Horse Pike. Normally he sells regular gas for 38.9 cents a gallon and premium for 45.9 cents.

Those who decided on public transportation didn't have to worry about gas, but they had to hassle with crowds.

Amtrack, the nation's passenger rail service, got "every available coach they had out of mothballs" to handle the load, one regional supervisor said.

A spokesman said Amtrak's system- wide reservations center received 27,000 calls for information on Thanksgiving Day, about 15,000 more than expected.

Standing room only was the case on many of Amtrak's trains, especially the Washington - Philadelphia- New York route.

Greyhound Bus Lines in New York said it expected 50 per cent more travelers than usual for the holiday period.

An additional complication in bus travel was the voluntarily imposed 50 mile per hour speed limit on highway's making for late arrivals. "We've gotten so screwed up on schedules because of the lowered speed limits, that people don't know what the hell is going on," said one dispatcher at Port Authority in New York City.

Motorists in many areas seemed to be complying with the lowered speeds, now mandatory in at least 10 states.

Amtrak employes at various stations around the country indicated it wasn't just the Thanksgiving holiday that accounted for the increase in traffic.

"We're booked solid on all long-distance runs through Dec. 31. The gas shortage has had an awful lot to do with it," said Diane Ruddy, an Amtrak controller in Seattle.

Amtrak employes in Philadelphia said some trains to New York were booked full for weeks and that many passengers were willing to stand all the way if necessary.

Proxmire says Bork is holding his job illegally

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., says acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork is holding his job illegally and wants President Nixon to take "appropriate action" to comply with the law.

The Wisconsin Democrat said in a letter to Nixon released today that Bork's "lawful tenure as acting attorney general is limited to 30 days and the 30 days was up this past Monday, Nov. 19."

Bork, who as solicitor general is the No. 3 man in the Justice Department, became acting attorney general Oct. 20 when Elliot L. Richardson and William D. Ruckelshaus resigned as attorney general and deputy attorney general.

A federal judge ruled in June that the acting head of the Office of Economic Opportunity, Howard J. Phillips, could not continue in office past the 30-day limit because Nixon did not submit his name for Senate confirmation.

In the Phillips case, U.S. District Judge William Jones ruled that the president's power concerning interim appointments, "if it exists at all, exists only in emergency situations."

The administration has taken the position that, since Bork became acting attorney general by being the highest remaining Justice Department official rather than through appointment, the 30-day limit does not apply to Bork.

President Nixon has announced the choice of Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, as the new attorney general but has delayed sending the nomination to the Senate pending action on a measure to lower the attorney general's pay to its pre1969 level of $35,000.

Auto makers begin to face parts shortages

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's auto manufacturers are starting to run up against parts shortages caused partly by the energy crunch.

Industry observers say the situation, which has not caused any major problems yet, will deteriorate with a worsening of energy shortages.

Thus far the major shortages are in materials derived from natural gas and petroleum. They are used for interior trim and wiring.

"The plastics industry is extremely dependent on petroleum, and that may prove to be a problem in the future," said one auto industry spokesman.

General Motors and Ford say they are suffering acute shortages of interior materials like dash boards and panels, which are made from plastics. In some cases the automakers said they have assembled cars minus an armrest or dashboard. The parts were installed later when they arrived at assembly plants.

A more serious problem reported by Ford, GM and Chrysler is a shortage of wiring harnesses. The wiring harness is the basic electrical system of the car, connecting the battery to the headlights, taillights, dashboard and other systems.

Industry spokesmen attribute the problem to a shortage of polyvinyl chloride, which is used to insulate the wire. Since the wiring harness is the first system installed during assembly, the shortage has an immediate impact on plant work.

"If you're missing an arm rest, you can go ahead and build the car," said one spokesman. "But if you're missing a wiring harness you can't."

Industry spokesmen say a major factor in the vinyl problem is a jump in demand for the substance. They said part of that jump is an increase in use of plastic pipes for home construction. One spokesman also said the auto industry's need for polyvinyl chloride insulation was increased by the ignition-interlock seatbelt systems required in all 1974 models.

Some plant officials said they are running out of vinyl for car tops and seat covers. Industry officials are now looking at the possibility of limiting vinyl trim options.

Sermon calls for 'Thanksliving'

The sermon, ''Thanksgiving--Thanksliving", delivered by the Rev. Otto L. Dvorak, pastor of First United Methodist Church, at Wednesday night's annual union Thanksgiving service at First Church of the Nazarene, was based on scriptures from Psalms 100, 1 Corinthians 6:19- 20, Matthew 6:33 and Romans 14:12.

Here is the sermon text:

In the various mission endeavors of our Church I have been led, more and more, to the realization that Religion Is Universal. We may not have common creeds, but we all have a common quest.

That quest, I am convinced, is the quest for a good life, a fulfilled life, a life that is good not only for ourselves, but for our neighbors.

Religion is INSTRUMENTAL; FUNCTIONAL. The end result of all "True religion" should be MINISTRY, ministry to the total man. Religious disciplines or practices should lead men to have communion with & comprehension of the good life; but also commitment to & communication of this "good life" in all our relationships.

True religion does not ask —"What can I gain?"...but— rather "what can I give?" True religion is our human expression of thankfulness to the Divine Creator for the gift of life.

A. Thanksgiving is "Thanks-Living"

The disciplines of "religious living" (inside or outside the church) become the expression of our THANKSGIVING FOR THE GIFT OF LIFE. The best THANKSGIVING in essence is THANKS- LIVING.

St. Paul reminds us that "we are not our own..we have been bought with a price"...therefore out of gratitude to God, we ought to glorify HIM in & through our body, or our living. In another New Testament passage he says, "In everything GIVE THANKS". This is to say, "LIVE YOUR THANKS". Geo. Matheson in a great hymn sings, "I give Thee back the life I owe."

I believe that no man really lives until he begins to see life in the perspective of THANSKGIVING which produces purposeful THANKSLIVING. A man really begins to LIVE when he sees life not as a passing scene he is privileged to view, nor as a span of suffering he must endure, but as a bit of eternity he thankfully inhabits for a purpose. When we come alive to purpose, we come alive to God. I believe this is why Jesus said, "SEEK YE FIRST THE KINGDOM OF GOD...and all these other things shall be yours as well"...He knew that to perceive the purpose is imperative. After that, everything else falls into line.

Tolstoy in his "WHAT MEN LIVE BY" has the Angel speak to Simon & his wife. "People only SEEM to live when they care only for themselves...It is by love for others that we really live. He who has LOVE has God in him, & is in God..because God is Love." Here Tolstoy was quoting directly from St. John. He who has found a loving purpose for his life, a loving purpose outside himself, has really found both GOD & LIFE...

B. "LIFE IS LIKE A WOODS"

I think sometimes the poets say this better than anyone. Poets are our greatest theologians. I like Robert Frost, particularly his poem about New England & the winter time, in which he writes about life and its deep meanings. It seems like such a silly little ditty in some respects...Four brief stanzas, in which Frost portrays a horseman driving his sleigh through the fields in the late evening..The snow swirls through the trees & blankets the ground as twilight falls. It is a beautiful scene, as the driver stops at the edge of the woods & reflects...

"Whose woods these are I think I know.

His house is in the village though;

He will not see me stopping here

The poet paints beautifully the moment of reflection. A man stopping his horse on a snowy evening, looking at the woods fill up with snow, gets a glimpse of life. The closing lines of the poem have become immortal

"The woods are lovely, dark & deep,

But I have promises to keep,

And miles to go before I sleep,

And miles to go before I sleep..."

A young Navy doctor reflected upon the words & saw in them deep meaning for his life. They became for him a kind of "swan song to meaningless existence", driving him to spend his "disease- shortened span of years" to do the most that he could, for what he, Dr. Tom Dooley, termed, the "wretched and unloved of Asia." As he looked at life, he, like the sleigh driver in Frost's poem, saw the woods, "lovely, dark & deep"...

I believe the life of all men could be described this way..like a woods..Lovely with possibility...dark with pain.. and deep with purpose..."possibility, pain and purpose" "lovely, dark and deep" ...Can you see it?

jC. OUR RESPONSE TO LIFE.

As this line expresses the DESIGN of life, so in the next lines are expressed the responses for which life calls...a THANKSGIVING which consummates or results in THANKS—LIVING. How does a man react or respond to life? Frost's answer is beautifully expressed; "But I have promises to keep...and miles to go...before I sleep."

1. PROMISES TO KEEP.

As St. Paul says, "We are not our own.. we are bought with a price..." So the Psalmist says in many ways that we have a stewardship, an obligation to the ONE who created us. In Ps. 24 we read: "The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof." The whole creation process has purpose. Ps. 100 says "It is He that hath made us and not we ourselves. We are his people and the sheep of His pasture." The creature has a CREATOR who has created purposefully. We have a purpose to fulfill. EACH ONE OF US..."We have promises to keep..."

2. MILES TO GO.

The poet then says..."Miles to go..." He is here reminding us that life, REAL LIFE, is a struggle, a battle, not easily accomplished..but with effort.

We live in an age that demands excellence. HIGH STANDARDS are required of us in almost every area of endeavor.

In terms of spiritual disciplines and qualities of living, we look for easy ways out...we shrug off and shirk responsibility and involvement..Affluence ruins us by making us selfish..Technology destroys us by making us lazy and indolent. Convenience enslaves us by making us its servant...

The hymn- writer was correct: "Shame our wanton, selfish gladness, rich in things and poor in soul..." or another who wrote: "From ease and plenty save us, from pride of place absolve; purge us of low desire; lift us to HIGH RESOLVE."

We need to recover the old doctrine of sanctification, or Christian perfection...in secular terms, "DOING OUR BEST. I am glad that as a youth growing up I was never allowed to forget that "life demanded the BEST of me"...Now, I have not always lived up to this...This is more than a religious doctrine..It is LIFE itself. We have miles to go...Each man..our starting point may be different.. and we may not all arrive at the same final goal..but we are all called to run the race....

Yes... we have "miles to go"...

3. BEFORE WE SLEEP.

The third great idea in Frost's quatrain implies that the race ends...There is a judgment..There is a time of sleeping, a time of accounting.."miles to go..before I sleep". So St. Paul says in Romans "For each of us will stand before the judgment seat...Each and every one of us shall give an account of himself." Thanks-Living is always in the context of "impending accountability."

Grateful living is always aware of CONSEQUENCE. This says simply that "all relationships have consequences" and "reap judgments" An old proverb puts it, "He who picks up one end of the stick, picks up the other end as well."

For many of us an O. T. story of Daniel reading handwriting on the wall is loaded with dramatic overtones. The moving finger writes, and no one can read the language of judgment..No one but Daniel..And so Daniel, called from the dungeon says to Belshazzar, the king, that the hand has written the words: "Thou art weighed in the balances and found wanting."

Every life gets weighed sooner or later...and is measured in terms of its response. Every man lives his life either positively or negatively. He performs or he perverts...He lives wealthily or poorly..worthily or wastefully....

A great writer at the end of her career, lamented the fact that of all the stories she had written, she could not think of a single one that she would let God read. "There is not one worth showing to God", she cried..which was to say, "She had weighed herself in the balances and found herself wanting."

What about the story of your life and mine this evening? Is it worth showing to God? IS IT FULFILLING A PURPOSE?

In each of our lives there are areas that need ''improving'' or "strengthening." Perhaps I have not dealt fairly with someone, or I have been negligent. Perhaps I have been thoughtless or unconcerned..For all of us, LIFE AS WE LIVE IT needs to be questioned. Perhaps, for ourselves this evening, we need to call our own lives into question?

Do we have purpose?

How do we use Time?

Where are we going?

D. ''THE KINGDOM RESPONSE"

One of my favorite Bible stories is the story of Esther, who despite the fact that she was a Jewess, the daughter of an alien race of people in a captive land, nevertheless, wins the heart of the King and becomes Queen..Queen of all Persia.

She was beautiful and life for her was lovely in the palace. We might say "The woods were lovely"...

But Life was also DARK..dark with pain. There came the time when lovely Esther confronted a painful and perplexing problem. Her husband, the King, unaware that his own wife, the Queen, is of Jewish faith and heritage, has procliamed that ALL PEOPLE WHO WORSHIP THE JEWISH GOD MUST DIE.

Mordecai, who is Esther's foster- father, confronts her in a great and moving passage saying that she cannot escape the call of noble obligation. Even though she is a Queen, she is STILL A JEW. Though the Word GOD is not used in the entire book, Mordecai implies that she is still one of God's people. He tells Esther that she cannot hope to escape her responsibility by hiding in the palace yard. For even though her life might be spared, because of her position and beauty, if her people die, she will die too..inwardly. Mordecai tells here, in substance, that it is

A delegation of Sikeston area residents were among 2,667 persons attending the convention of Jehovah's Witnesses Nov. 3-4 at Arnold.

David Thornton, presiding overseer of the local congregation said, "The convention was a success in that all in attendance received further aid to continue living Christian lives at a time when the world of mankind seems to be loosing its grip on moral restraint."

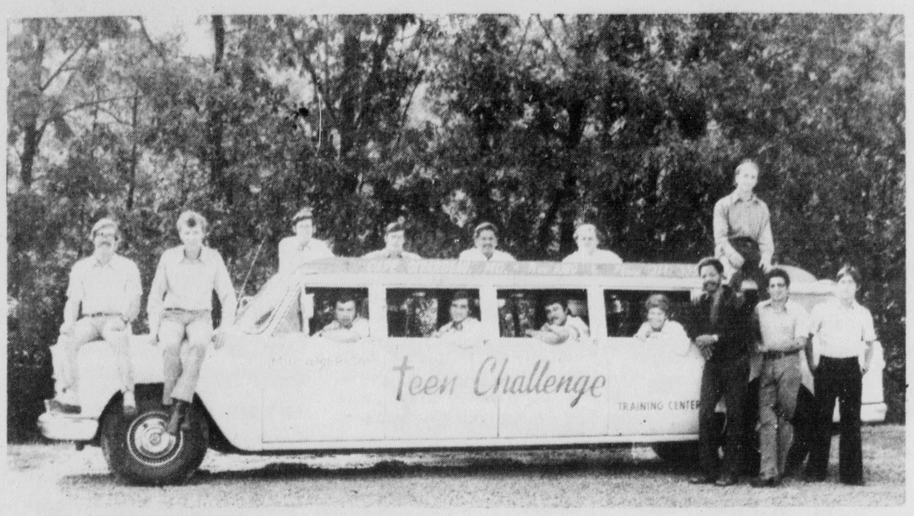
An important event in the lives of 130 new members took place Sunday morning when they symbolized their dedication to Jehovah God by undergoing water baptism. Only after completing a prescribed Bible study course were they permitted to take this memorable step. They will now join the 1.7 million ministers already engaged in the door to door ministry of teaching others.

The highlight of the program came Sunday at 2 p.m. when Denis Raftopoulos of the world headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses in New York, presented the discourse, "Act Wisely As the End Draws Near."

Frank Picel, circuit overseer of Jehovah's Witnesses in eastern and southeastern Missouri, pointed out in his discourse "Do You Insist on Your Rights?" that true Christians display love for each other in solving difficulties rather then insisting on their rights.

Singing event set at Salcedo

SALCEDO — The Singing Faithmen of Cape Girardeau will be at the Salcedo Baptist Church for a gospel singing program Sunday at 6:30 p.m., according to an announcement by the Rev. Watis R. Harrell, pastor.



Teen Challenge Rally set

The Rev. Philip Breithaupt and The New Creations, the regional representative and choir from the Mid- America Teen Challenge Center at Cape Girardeau, will present a Teen Challenge Rally during Sunday School at 9:30 a.m and the 10:30 a.m. worship service Sunday at First Assembly of God Church, 306 S. Kinghighway.

Teen Challenge group to visit First Assembly

A Teen Challenge Rally will be held at First Assembly of God Church, 306 S. Kingshighway, Sunday at 9:30 and 10:30 a.m., hosting the Rev. Philip Breithaupt, the regional representative, and The New Creations of Mid- America Teen Challenge Training Center at Cape Girardeau, the Rev. T. A. McDonough, pastor, has announced.

The New Creations, the official choir of Mid-America teen challenge, will sing at the rally. They will express both in sacred music and testimony how they have found mental and physical cure from drug addiction at the Teen Challenge Center through Christ, according to Pastor McDonough.

Also, the rally will inform people of the unique purpose and reason for the existence of the Teen Challenge program.

The choir members are former law breakers, drug addicts, alcoholics and other delinquent youth. The Rev. Mr. Breithaupt, the choir director, has served as tenor soloist with the Revivaltime choir on the ABC Network and has recorded two long play albums. He has addressed civic clubs, high school assemblies, universities, student organizations and churches of many denominations in behalf of this program.

Mid- America Teen Challenge Training Center is directed by the Rev. Herb Meppelink, founder of Detroit Teen Challenge. It serves as the rehabilitation, training and re- entry program for the induction centers of over 14, Midwestern States.

The training center is located at Cape Girardeau, just west of the Mississippi River on a beautiful farm which provides a wholesome atmosphere where former hippies, addicts, alcoholics and other delinquent male youth of all races find a lasting solution to their problems, according to Pastor McDonough.

Teen Challenge is a non-profit, religious- oriented rehabillitation program for drug addicts and other delinquent youth. It has launched a nationwide campaign to aid youth through a moral and spiritual approach. The Rev. David Wilkerson, founder of the program in 1958, has authored 12 books and is considered a foremost authority on youth today.

His first book, "The Cross and the Switchblade," which tells the history of Teen Challenge, a seven- million copy best- seller, has been translated into 32 different languages and was recently made into a feature- length movie starring Pat Boone.

Teen Challenge has 55 rehabilitation centers in the United States and Puerto Rico and 23 programs in eight foreign countries. The national average cure rate for hard core addicts who complete the Teen Challenge program is 54 per cent, ranging from 10 per cent in a newly established center to 90 per cent in the most developed programs.

The integrated, free, non-sectarian spiritual services and physical aid given by the Teen Challenge program is made possible by gifts from churches, foundations and interested individuals.

The Rev. Mr. McDonough will introduce the Rev. Mr. Breithaupt and The New Creations to the public.

Also, the pastor will conduct a water baptismal service in the evening service which begins at 7 o'clock.

Sermon

better to die nobly, than to die the slow death of regret. And then he says..."Who Knows But That Thou Hast Come To The Kingdom For Such A Time as This?" (Esther 4:14). Of all the moments of this woman's life, this was the moment for which she had been born.

So the lovely Queen goes before the King and faces death on behalf of her people. She dares to do what even a Queen cannot do. Unbidden, she stands before the King to make a request, to challenge his edict. With courage, she makes her stand. "If I perish, I perish". In the beautiful story, neither does SHE die nor do her people die. The King listens to her plea, honors it, and spares both Esther and her people.

In that moment, she is truely born. She does the noble thing. She comes alive to purpose. Therefore, it is in that moment that she begins to live. Her life is not only lovely with possibility and dark with pain. She discovers within it a "depth of purpose".

FOR US TOO

I like Mordecai's great question to Esther. "Who knows but that thou hast come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"

I know that many times this verse is used as a challenge to youth about to enter into some new phase of live..vocation, education..marriage...But really, it is a question for all of us. Perhaps we ought to ask at the beginning of every day, every new experience...ARE WE MAKING A KINGDOM RESPONSE?

Let us make this Thanksgiving period in our life a "Thanks- Living occasion, an occasion to begin living more thankfully... a time of making a KINGDOM RESPONSE... for we, too, "have promises to keep, and miles to go before we sleep." Let us pray---

EAST PRAIRIE — Charles Sailors, 29, of Memphis, Tenn., a former resident of East Prairie, died instantly at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday as a result of a 90-foot-fall following a traffic accident on the new Mississippi River bridge near Memphis.

The truck Sailors was driving east on Interstate 240 and an eastbound gasoline truck sideswiped on the bridge and jackknifed. Following the collision, Sailors apparently saw the gasoline truck catch fire and jumped out the cab of his truck without realizing that it has crashed through the bridge railing and was hanging over the side of the bridge.

He fell 90 feet to his death, according to police who said Sailors landed in a field along the river bank and did not hit the water.

Arabs warn west against taking countermeasures

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Saudi Arabia's oil minister says the Arabs could reduce their oil production by as much as 80 per cent if America, Japan or Europe take measures to counteract reductions and embargoes in Arab oil production.

"Our oil weapon is far more powerful than what you see now. In fact we did nothing at all so far," Ahmed Saki Yamani said in Copenhagen Thursday. "We could cut production by 80 per cent."

Yamani issued the warning during a television interview when he was asked to respond to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's comment suggesting U.S. retaliation if the Arab oil squeeze continues.

Kissinger said Wednesday, "It is clear that if pressures continue unreasonably and indefintely, that then the United States will have to consider what countermeasures it may have to take."

Some suggested countermeasures have been halts in exports of food grains and other materials to Arab countries.

Yamani said he did not doubt there are countermeasures available, but he said any such actions would be a gamble that might force the economies of areas such as Western Europe and Japan to collapse.

The Arab oil producers have stopped oil shipments to the United States and the Netherlands and reduced overall production by 25 per cent, with another 5 per cent reduction planned each month until Israel withdraws from Arab territory captured since 1967.

Saudi Arabia's King Faisal said in Lebanon he will never compromise on the oil restrictions against the United States, Japan and Western Europe until the Arab demands concerning Israel are "unconditionally met."

But in London, British and Indian diplomatic sources said Saudi Arabia, by far the largest Arab oil producer, is unlikely to continue using oil as a diplomatic weapon because of fears by Faisal of provoking reprisals.

In other developments, the Shah of Iran, whose country is the only non-Arab oil producer in the Persian Gulf, called upon Arabs to abandoned their use of oil as a diplomatic weapon. "Oil is like bread," he said. "It should not be withheld in peacetime."

In Canada, Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau said his government will reveal a series of measures next week aimed at ensuring adequate supplies of gasoline and heating oil this winter. The government is expected to prohibit the sale of gasoline on Sundays and make petroleum allocations at the wholesale level.

In Brussels, Common Market officials told representatives from its nine member countries that the organization's Commission on Transport was trying to determine what common actions may be taken to combat the oil shortage.

The West German government hinted that it may soon broaden its fuel conservation powers. Chancellor Willy Brandt told his cabinet that the oil squeeze could seriously affect the German economy. He did not rule out "social, structural and economic repercussions."

Election ballots in mail to area farmers

Directors of four county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Services have announced that farmers are being mailed election ballots for the 1974 community committee positions. Voting will be conducted by mail during a 10- day period extending from today through Dec. 3.

The ballot and election material being mailed contains complete instructions for voting. Careful attention to voting instructions is emphasized to assure a valid ballot. Election ballots postmarked after Dec. 3 cannot be counted, making prompt mailing of importance.

ASCS personnel are making an effort to furnish a ballot to all farm owners and operators carried on office records. In general, anyone participating in Agricultural production other than as a hired worker is eligible to vote. Ballots will be furnished by the ASCS Office upon request to anyone establishing voter eligibility.

Tabulation of voting will be conducted on Dec. 7 at the ASCS Office and can be observed by the public if desired.

County and community committeemen serve in an advisory and policy capacity in the administration of farm programs.

For Shy, last year was a disaster. The Mississippi River backed up into his pecan groves and carried away all of his nuts. Hopes of recovering this year with a normal crop of 40,000 to 50,000 pounds are gone. He will get only about 10,000 pounds of Stuarts and native pecans this year.

Shy says poor crops have also occurred in parts of Mississippi where cotton defoliants have been used.

Haubold says his crop amounted to only about 800 pounds this year, compared to a normal crop of 3,500 to 4,000 pounds.

There have been two consolations for Haubold. He says the pecans have all been of good quality and he is getting a good price for them.

FINEST IN 60 YEARS.

Back in 1914, when the first Dodge motorcar was built, there were over 100 different new makes making their initial debut. Today, Dodge is one of only a few of the early makes still being manufactured.

We've changed a lot of things in our 60 years. One thing we didn't change: Dodge Dependability.

'74 DODGE CORONET!

Once again, we have the right car for its time.

In our 60 years of bringing people dependable motorcars, few, if any, have had the rare combination of good looks and practicality you'll see in our new '74 Dodge Coronet sedans and station wagons. Coronet is a mid-size, so it has maneuverability much like that of smaller cars and almost the roominess of full-sized cars. "Plenty of car, sensibly priced" —that's what makes the '74 Dodge Coronet such an outstanding buy! Come see our mid-sized four-door sedans and wagons real soon.

Danforth reported pondering future

After winning the attorney general's post in 1968, Danforth lost a close race in 1970 to the veteran Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo. in being re-elected last year, Danforth got more votes than anybody on the ballot in Missouri, even President Nixon.

His vote-getting ability helped the GOP win three of the top five elective offices, including the governor's chair, which had been filled by Democrats for 28 years.

Danforth wants one more shot at a Senate seat. But he's faced with the unhappy prospect that to challenge Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton next year might finish him. He does not want to be a two-time loser. He indicated that if he runs for the Senate again and loses, he will leave politics.

"I don't want to be a constant candidate..I don't want to die in politics," he said in an interview.

"I intend to run for the Senate in either 1974 or 1976. Nobody is pressing me for an early decision on 1974."

Danforth said Eagleton is very strong and he didn't dispute the report of a poll leaked to the news media showing the incumbent Democrat has a 2-1 edge over him in a possible Senate race.

Eagleton forces would not release other information on the poll. Danforth said other poll information he recently received was not encouraging, nor was a recent visit to Washington to get the view from there.

Danforth said he asked party leaders for some good reasons to make the race in 1974 and he got none, although he did get the standard remarks that the party needs him.

Danforth said there are others in the party who could make the race and he mentioned Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps and Rosemary Ginn of Columbia, Republican national committeewoman.

He said he wasn't sure if Phelps was still interested, but would like to see Mrs. Ginn make the race.

"She's a very bright person and a very decent person," Danforth said. "I admire her. She is the kind of person I would like to be."

Phelps said this week, "It's too early" for him to make a decision on whether he would run, if Danforth doesn't.

The more Danforth talked the less he held out the possibility he might challenge Eagleton. And he said he would probably not run for a third term as attorney general in 1976.

"I don't know who long I should stay," he said, adding that he had "no personal desire to be governor."

On Danforth's bookshelf was a large photo of Gov. Christopher S. Bond, who started as a Danforth assistant attorney general, won the auditor's race in 1970 and shot to the governor's chair in 1972.

While Bond, who at 34 is three years younger than Danforth, says he has no plans in 1976 other than running for reelection, some top Democrats don't buy it. They say the second term often diminishes one's popularity and that Bond might find it advantageous to try for Symington's seat.

Will Davis, former executive director of the state Democratic party, said Danforth and Bond—two men from wealthy families—"inevitably are on a collision course."

But Danforth rejects this, saying "Kit Bond and I are not presently interested in the same jobs. I don't foresee that we would be interested in the same jobs."

He called Phelps "a political accident" in that he was elected lieutenant governor.

If Bond runs for the Senate in 1976, Phelps is expected to be the GOP candidate for governor.

James I. Spainhower, Democratic state treasurer, is not that certain it will be Danforth and Bond vying for the same seat in 1976. He doesn't count Danforth out of the 1974 race.

"Jack will run if he's close enough to shoot at it," Spainhower said.

Democrats describe Danforth as being "in a box," or "between a rock and a hard place."

Asked if it would be fair for him, apparently the strongest Republican candidate, to sit out the 1974 Senate race, Danforth said he did not feel it his responsibility to carry the party on his shoulders alone.

"I don't think a political party can consistently put all its eggs in the basket of one person or even two," he said.

Danforth would not say the 1974 race has been his toughest decision, only that "my problem is focusing on it."

Along with his political aspirations, Danforth has been thinking about what to do with the rest of his life.

He's an ordained Episcopal minister and said he is concerned about the role of both religion and education in society.

"When I get out of politics I want to do something other than grub for a buck," he said.

He wants to be involved in some kind of public service endeavor.

"I don't want to die in politics," he said. "I don't want to be carried out feet first."

NO THREAT TO DALI, maybe, but apparently the chimp does have a following at this painting school for children in Munich, West Germany.

Poll shows that more favor Nixon to remain in office

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nationwide poll indicates that more Americans believe President Nixon should remain in office than resign, but the gap between the two opinions continues to narrow.

Pollster Louis Harris reported Thursday that the call for Nixon's resignation in view of the Watergate affair rose to 43 per cent in a sampling of 1,459 adults taken between Nov. 12 and Nov. 15.

On the last day of that period, Nixon spoke to the National Association of Realtors convention here in the first of a series of formal public appearances in which he has responded to Watergate allegations.

The 43 per cent favoring resignation contrasted with 36 per cent in October, 31 per cent in September, 28 per cent in August and 14 per cent last May, Harris said.

The November survey showed 47 per cent opposed resignation, compared with 50 per cent in October, 56 per cent in September, 63 per cent in August and 75 per cent in May.

Ten per cent in the latest sampling were undecided.

Asked their feelings concerning resignation should it be proven that Nixon was aware of Watergate cover-up efforts in the White House, Harris said 59 per cent favored his departure and 33 per cent did not.

Twenty-three per cent of the persons polled said they believed Nixon's statement that two of the nine subpoenaed Watergate tape recordings never existed, but 55 per cent expressed disbelief, Harris said.

The poll was taken before disclosure on Wednesday that an 18-minute segment of one of the seven existing tapes had been obliterated by an unexplained tone.

J. Fred Buzhardt, a presidential lawyer, told U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica that he and another lawyer discovered the gap in the conversation on Nov. 14 while preparing an index and analysis of the tapes.

The tape involved is of a conversation between Nixon and then-White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman on June 20, 1972, three days after the break-in at Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate office building.

Buzhardt's disclosure prompted Sirica to suggest that Nixon voluntarily turn over all subpoenaed tapes or documents to the court or the court should take custody of the materials and place them under 24-hour guard.

In explanation, Sirica said: "This is just another instance that convinces the court that it has to take some steps, not because the court doesn't trust the White House or the President ... The court is interested in seeing that nothing else happens."

Sirica said the matter would be pursued in court Monday.

Richardson says Nixon ignored advice about Cox

NEW YORK (AP) — Former U.S. Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson says President Nixon ignored his top aide's advice and tried to limit the investigation of ex-special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, the New York Times said today.

Richardson quotes the White House chief of staff, Alexander M. Haig Jr., as saying he urged Nixon to cancel an order to Cox to halt court litigation aimed at obtaining Watergate tapes and related documents.

"Haig said he had tried, but the President wouldn't yield on that," Richardson said in a Times interview at his McLean, Va. home.

When asked for comment, the Times said, Haig replied, "I don't discuss what discussions I had with the President."

According to Richardson, Haig was turned down by Nixon on Oct. 19.

On Oct. 20, Nixon ordered Cox dismissed. Richardson resigned in protest, and William Ruckelshaus left his job as assistant U.S. attorney general after he also refused to fire Cox. The prosecutor was dismissed by the solicitor general, Robert H. Bork, hastily elevated to acting attorney general.

Richardson said in the Times interview that the White House sought to answer the Cox subpoena of some tapes and documents by offering a White House summary that would be verified by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss. While supporting the so-called Stennis compromise, Richardson said, he objected to Nixon's view that Cox should be "instructed" not to pursue other tapes and documents.

Haig relayed the attorney general's objection to the President, but told Richardson that night that he was to order Cox to accept the compromise.

Wounded man goes unnoticed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A man who staggered into a Miami Beach bar screaming for help after he was shot by a holdup man was ejected for being noisy, police say.

John Harrington, 49, blood streaming from his chest, then panhandled 30 cents and caught a bus which took him three miles across Biscayne Bay to neighboring Miami, investigators said.

He sat unnoticed for half an hour on a bench in front of a Miami department store before a passerby noticed his plight and called police.

Westover resigns as president of MAJC

POPLAR BLUFF — Dr. H. Tudor Westover, president of Three Rivers Community College, has submitted his resignation as president of the Missouri Association of Junior Colleges.

In his letter of resignation to John Pollmann, vice president of the association, President Westover stated that his resignation was due to the condition of his health. Dr. Westover suffered a cardiac arrest in August. Although he is making satisfactory progress, his physician has advised against assuming any additional activities.

John Pollmann was elected as association vice president last week and will automatically step up to the presidency. He is a member of the faculty of Meramec Community College of St. Louis - St. Louis County Junior College District. Pollmann has served on numerous association committees and other state wide committees.

Dr. Westover had previously served as vice president of MAJC in 1962 and as president in 1963.

Alaska pipeline may not function until mid-1978

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — By current estimates it may be mid-1978 before the transAlaska pipeline begins feeding oil to an energy-hungry country.

Nobody expected the pipeline which won congressional approval last week to bring an immediate end to the energy crisis. But oil companies which had previously said it would take three years to build the multi-billion dollar project now say it will take closer to four years.

The pipeline will stretch 789 miles south from the oil rich North Slope fields to the icefree port of Valdez where tankers ferry oil to the 48 contiguous states.

To do the job, the seven oil firms building the pipeline say they need 13,000 workers and up to $5 billion.

Some officials say a reasonable estimate of construction time is 36 to 42 months, with another four to six months to get the line humming with North Slope crude.

Reasons for the tentative extension are intricate.

Charles Spahr, board chairman of Standard Oil Co. of Ohio, told the Alaska Legislature last month that the planned daily production of 600,000 barrels during pipeline warmup would be doubled "almost immediately."

That would mean a total of eight pumping stations to move the oil to tankers in the Gulf of Alaska instead of the three envisioned originally.

A dozen stations will be needed when the pipeline reaches a capacity of 2 million barrels daily. President Nixon has said the Alaska pipline's eventual ouput will equal 8½ per cent of current petroleum use in the country.

Environmental stipulations have forced about half the pipeline to be built above ground. That method is more costly and time-consuming than burying it, but is considered safer in icy soil.

When oil was discovered on the North Slope in 1968, cost estimates for the pipeline project were $900 million. Cost is now placed between $4 billion and $5 billion, making it the most expensive private construction project ever.

Three mountain ranges and 70 rivers have to be spanned. Workers will avoid river crossings when fish are spawning and the pipeline will be buried below river bottoms except for the Yukon, where a 2,400-foot bridge is planned.

The pipeline also will have to be elevated over earthquake zones, in some areas on pilings 10-feet high. Engineers plan to use a special zig-sag design to enable the half-inch thick steel pipe to absorb shocks up to 8.5 on the Richter Scale. The 1964 Good Friday quake, which caused extensive property damage, measured 8.4.

The entire line will be wrapped in four inches of plastic insulation to keep the oil, flowing at 145 degrees farenheit, from congealing. It will also prevent the heat from thawing the ground.

Most work on the pipeline will run from March to mid-November. Temperatures plunging to 60 degrees below zero will preclude most activity at other times.

Taste buds are limited to one or two functions – that is, some signal taste of sourness, sweetness, salty or bitter flavors. They are so sensitive that if a person gave full attention to them, he could easily distinguish the year in which a wine was made, or the reef on which oysters are grown. Legend proclaims a few gourmets claimed the ability to nibble the leg of a partridge and determine whether or not the bird customarily used that leg in roosting!

Through an exclusive patented process, the water refiner sorts and removes the invisible problem causing solids and pollutants found in today's tap water. And softens it too!

Your tap water, although clear to the eye, contains hidden solids, chlorine and other chemicals which cause odors in drinking water, coffee and other beverages, makes food colorless and unappetizing. With a water refiner these problems vanish. It helps make your water bearing appliances work the way they should. It does so much more – you could call it your "invisible Maid". And it saves you money too! Call Braswell.

PAUL REVERE'S SECOND RIDE .. was through the streets of Sikeston ... He came upon a well kept 1 1/2 story home nestled on a corner lot in the heart of town. He didn't even need his horse because he could walk to downtown or the shopping center in five minutes. As he entered the front foyer, you could hear him cheering to the spaciousness of the living room and dining room. The kitchen would accommodate the supplies for his army of men. The master bedroom also on the first floor with its own bath would have impressed the greatest of generals. From here he raced up the steps to find three bedrooms and another bath which he quickly visualized as a cozy resting place for his men. In the full basement he found it to be clean and dry and certainly adequate to store his ammunition or as a recreational room for his men. Paul Revere's only problem now is to convert British pounds into 24,000 American dollars.

What's the law?

The case of the protested giveaway

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Homer, 83 years of age, had no regard for money. While he was pleasant, cheerful and a sharp old man, if money talked, he didn't listen. In fact, he signed a contract to sell a piece of property for $25,000 when he knew it was worth at least four times that amount.

As it turned out, however, Homer's disdain for money wasn't a family characteristic. Upon learning what Homer had done, immediate members of his family hurriedly raced to court to have the contract of sale declared invalid on the grounds that aged Homer didn't have the mental capacity to make the deal.

"The poor old guy's been going backward as he's been advancing in years," the relatives told the judge. "Obviously, he didn't know what he was doing when he agreed to sell the property for only a fraction of its worth. Only a man who has lost his marbles would agree to do that!"

"That's not so," protested Homer in defense of his action. "While the land may be worth more, all I want is what I agreed to sell it for. Lots of money causes trouble and I have no use for either. As far as I'm concerned, the price is right."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold an old man incompetent for agreeing to sell property for far less than its worth?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that generosity in disposing of one's property does not, in and of itself, make a person incompetent. In this case, observed the judge, Homer was alert and attentive and, while his selling price might have seemed unrealistic to others, it was consistent with his not unrealistic philosophy of seeking and obtaining only so much money as a person needs.

Cason critical of special session

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate president pro tem, Sen. William J. Cason, said Wednesday Gov. Christopher S. Bond's call for a special session Dec. 3 will have a "bad and negative effect on the regular session."

The Clinton Democrat, chief foe on reorganization, said the legislature would respond and try to pass a reorganization bill.

"We will endeavor to do the very best possible job that we can under the extremely difficult circumstances the governor throws us into by calling a special session at this time," Cason said.

"I had asked him to call a special session in October, because then it would have lasted 60 days and we could certainly have had it over before the regular session starts.

"In calling one today, he enmeshes the special session and overlaps it with the regular session."

Automatic transmissions were installed in 90.5 per cent of all U.S. 1972 model cars; 68.5 per cent of the cars had air conditioners. Environmental officials have revealed the air conditioning increases gasoline consumption by about 10-20 per cent depending on the temperature and driving speed. The World Almanac says.

Dr. Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Can I say something about us nonsmokers, and how bad it is for us with lung trouble, and how smokers hurt those who don't smoke? It was my first plane trip and we went to California. I did fine and enjoyed our granddaughter's wedding, but couldn't stay for fear the smog there would cause trouble. In fact, all the time we stayed for two weeks there was no smog where we were. In many stores they have no smoking signs. Coming back by jet I had a bad spell, but medicine and help was there.

We stopped in Dallas to wait for the plane to go to Texarkana, Arkansas. All was fine until we were airborne, then came the bombing of smokers so bad that I had to use the oxygen to help me breathe, but seeing me struggle to breathe, a man across said, "Can I help you," as he blew a cloud of smoke into my face which almost made me die. To make the story short, I had to spend two weeks in the hospital after the trip in the airplane. I was under oxygen for 12 hours so my lungs could breathe on their own. I have cancer all over and my lungs are now getting bad. Why couldn't I have enjoyed my first and maybe my last trip? Tell this to the people who smoke in the planes, please.

Dear Reader — Your point is well taken. Even dividing the planes into smoking and no smoking sections doesn't eliminate the real hazard that individuals with medical problems have during air travel. In fact, if you're in the row just in front of the smoking section the smoke from the seats behind you will drift up directly to your area.

I just can't believe that people who smoke appreciate how they are infringing on other people's rights, and even their health. Your case is a good example. There are a number of people who travel by air who have medical problems, such as asthma or severe allergies, who simply cannot tolerate tobacco smoke. One individual's freedom should stop where the other person's begins. The right to breathe clean air during public transportation is surely where the next person's freedom begins.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have a bone out of place in the upper part of my back. I've had this for over a year, and it never gave me very much trouble before. One time I stretched with my arm over my head and I got a sharp pain in my chest that went up to my ear. I felt dizzy, weak, and nauseated, and short of breath. I'm only 18 and I've just described a heart attack. I'm 5'6" tall and I weigh 126. Could this have been caused by the bone being out of place?

Dear Reader — I hate to disillusion you, but you have not "just described a heart attack." You have described a set of non-specific symptoms, all in the ball park of an impending faint. Causes for fainting are innumerable. This includes overbreathing, pain, and even psychic influences.

Heart attacks are not very often associated with sharp pains. These are more often musculo-skeletal. You may indeed have a cramped muscle which can cause pain referred to other parts of the body. Pain in the back or muscles along the spine can cause pain in the front of the chest.

If you continue to have symptoms, let a doctor decide what the diagnosis is, but I would like to reassure you that your symptoms are not those of a heart attack.

Refund seekers must have dedication

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — When Harry Heller went shopping recently, he bought $10.23 worth of food, but ended up paying only $2.92. His secret? He belongs to a growing army of shoppers who call themselves refunders.

The difference between a refunder and an ordinary coupon-clipper is dedication. Refunders must mail hundreds of letters a year for refunds and spend hours filling out forms.

The idea behind refunding is that hundreds of companies are ready to pay hard cash to have someone try their products. On everything from hot dogs to detergents there is a chance to make money.

According to estimates from companies and consumers, there are some 10,000 ardent refunders throughout the country. They comb newspapers and magazines seeking refund coupons and become avid readers of boxes and bags hoping to find firms offering money back in exchange for box tops or labels.

Here is how it works: A refunder gets a coupon allowing him 10 cents off on an 89-cent package of rolls. Then he waits until the company also offers a money refund offer, say 50 cents. The refunder uses his 10-cent coupon and pays 79 cents for the roll, then mails in his refund form and ends up paying just 2 cents.

Of course, for refunders there are also some drawbacks. Some of the most ardent of this new breed of consumer end up eating hot dogs and pancakes.

Trevor Howard (left) and Martin Sheen respectively portray an aging abbot plagued by doubts of faith and a young social activist priest whose faith has given way to reason alone, in "Catholics," the "CBS Playhouse 90" production of Brian Moore's acclaimed novel, to be broadcast Thursday, Nov. 29 (9:00- 10:30 PM, EST) on the CBS Television Network.

BRIAN MOORE'S "CATHOLICS" TO BE BROADCAST AS THE FIRST "CBS PLAYHOUSE 90" OF THE SEASON THURSDAY, NOV. 29

"Catholics," a television adaptation of Brian Moore's critically acclaimed short novel of the same title, will be presented as the season's first "CBS Playhouse 90" Thursday, Nov. 29 *8- 9:30 p.m. CST) on the CBS Television Network. Trevor Howard, Martin Sheen and Cyril Cusack star.

Sponsors for the broadcast are Connecticut General Life Insurance Company, represented by Cunningham & Walsh Inc., and Mobil Oil Corporation, represented by Doyle Dane Bernbach Inc. The broadcast will preempt "The CBS Thursday Night Movies" on the Network on this date.

The special, under the supervision of Lewis Freedman, Executive Producer, Dramatic Programs, for the Network, was filmed last spring on location in Ireland. It is the first production for television by award-winning motion- picture producer Sidney Glazier. The special was produced by Barry Levinson and directed by Jack Gold.

The drama focuses on the conflict between an aging, conservative abbot and a young, progressive priest over the abbot's observance of the Mass. Within this framework-- a dispute over the celebration of the Mass in Latin instead of English– the drama touches upon the personal conflict of faith between the aging, doubt-plagued abbot and the young social- activist American priest from Rome.

Howard portrays the abbot, Sheen plays the young American, and Cusack is a monk who tries to hold fast to the old order. The cast is composed of such leading Irish and British actors as Andrew Keir, Michael Gambon, Leon Vitale, Godfrey Quigley, Tom Jordan, Patrick Long, John Kelly, Richard Oliver, Gilbert McIntyre, Derry Power, Seamus Healy, John Franklyn, Cecil Sheridan, Laim Burk, Frank Howard, Conor Evans and John Pine, many of them members of Dublin's famed Abbey Players and all of them portraying monks.

The production group includes cinematographer Gerry Fisher of "The Bridge on the River Kwai" and "The Go- Between" fame, film editor Anne Coates, set designer John Clark and assistant director Michael Gowan.

'TODAY'

Mondays-Fridays, NBC Television Network
(In Color, 6-8 a.m.)

Timeliness is the keynote for the NBC Television Network's award- winning "Today," network television's longest- running weekday program. It has been on the air since Jan. 14, 1952.

"We've never changed the basic format," declares Executive Producer Stuart Schulberg, "but we've updated the program to keep pace with current, and often controversial, issues. In other words, we are truly 'today', not 'yesterday' of 'the day before that'."

Among Mr. Shulberg's innovations have been week-long visits to Romania, Japan, Canada and Great Britain; domestic originations from Chicago, Nashville, Detroit and Miami; a weekly segment on the Midwest scene, originating in Chicago; and analytical pieces by NBC correspondents.

No other program on the air offers as broad a scope and as great a turnover of material as "Today," which is produced by NBC News. It provides news, weather reports, topical discussions, exhibitions, demonstrations and reviews. The program has won many awards, including three Emmys (1968, 1970, 1971).

Frank McGee has been host of "Today" since October, 1971. His predecessors have been Dave Garroway, John Chancellor and Hugh Downs. Barbare Walters and Gene Shalit are featured and Frank Blair reports the news.

Stamps

Yachting races have proved exciting to spectators and participants alike for many years. When such events are depicted on stamps, they ofttimes seem to lend added fun and excitement to the hobby of stamp collecting.

The latest set of stamps from Grenada reveals the beauty of boats plying the seas in competition in that area. It honors the Carriacou Regatta.

The Carriacou Regatta is featured on seven new stamps. The ½ cent shows racing-class yachts; 1 cent, cruising-class yacht; 2 cent, small open-decked sloop; 35 cent, a large decked sloop, "The Mermaid"; 50 cent, St. George's Harbor; 75 cent, map of Carriacou; $1, boat building in Carriacou. A souvenir sheet was also issued.

Carriacou is the largest of the chain of islands known as the Grenadines in the Caribbean and is rich in French and British history. As for its beautiful scenery, Grenada is noted for the colorful stamps it produces — and this set is typical of previous issues.

The 1974 edition of the Minkus World Wide Catalog will be issued not just in two volumes, but in two stages. Next month one volume will be released at $14.50 and next spring Volume II, at the same price, will be on the market.

Volume I, covering U.S. and possessions, the British Commonwealth and Ireland, United Nations, Latin America, Africa and Asia, has more than 2,000 pages. Volume II, including Europe and its colonies, possessions and related territories, was produced with difficulties because of the uncertain monetary situation abroad. That is the reason for the late date of issuance.

As usual, both catalogs will be available at your local dealer or stamp department.
